ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING GUIDANCE FOR THE ACCOUNTANCY SECTOR

Guidance for those providing audit, accountancy, tax advisory, insolvency or related services in the United Kingdom, on the prevention of money laundering and the countering of terrorist financing. Issued by the Consultative Committee of Accountancy Bodies, in August 2008.

The Anti-Money Laundering Guidance for the Accountancy Sector has been approved by Treasury (excluding Appendix A - Supplementary guidance for the Tax Practitioner, which has been submitted for Treasury approval separately). Guidance which is approved by Treasury is 'relevant guidance' within the meaning of the Money Laundering Regulations 2007. Courts must consider relevant guidance when determining whether an accountant's conduct gives rise to certain offences under either the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 or the Money Laundering Regulations 2007. It is this guidance which practitioners should consider as authoritative when implementing and complying with anti-money laundering requirements.

The Guidance provides the accountancy sector with not only an interpretation of the requirements of the Money Laundering Regulations 2007 (which became effective from 15th December 2007) and primary legislation relating to money laundering and terrorist financing but also practical guidance on good practice for matters not prescribed in law.

This Guidance includes a number of minor changes made since the guidance was issued in December 2007 (following the publication of an exposure draft in October 2007).

The Guidance reflects not only law but the experience of practitioners. For more complex areas of customer due diligence, our guidance continues to be cross referred to the guidance notes issued by the Joint Money Laundering Steering Group. However, it is intended that, at least for most smaller practitioners, the guidance will be self contained and the need to refer to additional external material will be minimal.

To aid easy access, use is made of defined terms explained in a glossary and each section is prefaced with key points for quick reference.

APPENDIX A - Supplementary Anti-Money Laundering Guidance for Tax Practitioners

SECTION 1 – ABOUT THIS GUIDANCE

KEY POINTS

- UK anti-money laundering regime requirements are set out in the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA) (as amended by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (SOCPA)), the Money Laundering Regulations 2007 (2007 Regulations) and the Terrorism Act 2000 (TA 2000) (as amended by the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001 (ATCSA 2001) and the Terrorism Act 2006 (TA 2006)).
- HM Treasury approval for this Guidance has been granted. As such the Courts must take it into account in deciding whether or not an offence has been committed under ss330-331, POCA or the 2007 Regulations by an individual or business within its scope.
- Businesses and individuals should take account of this Guidance when acting in the course of business as auditors, external accountants, insolvency practitioners and tax advisers, and when acting in the course of business as trust and company service providers. Failure to do so could have serious legal, regulatory or professional disciplinary consequences.
- Where other professional or trade bodies have produced specialist Guidance concerning particular services or activities, businesses and individuals may need, to have regard to that Guidance as a supplement to this Guidance.

INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 Terms that appear in italics in this Guidance are explained in the Glossary.
- 1.2 This Guidance has been drafted to be consistent with the Guidance for the UK financial sector issued by the Joint Money Laundering Steering Group (JMLSG). Some of the material contained in this guide draws significantly on JMLSG wording, for which thanks are due to the JMLSG. The JMLSG Guidance is very comprehensive, and where businesses or individuals require further guidance, they may seek it from the JMLSG Guidance. Businesses and individuals carrying out defined services who follow the JMLSG Guidance, adapted for the circumstances in which they are practising, will be deemed to have followed this Guidance.
- 1.3 This Guidance has been prepared to assist accountants and related businesses and professionals in complying with their obligations, arising from United Kingdom legislation, in relation to the prevention, recognition and reporting of money laundering.

BUSINESSES AND INDIVIDUALS WITHIN THE SCOPE OF THIS GUIDANCE

- 1.4 The Guidance is addressed to businesses and individuals covered by Regulation 3 (1)(c) of the 2007 Regulations ie, those who act in the course of a business carried on by them in the United Kingdom as an auditor, external accountant, insolvency practitioner or tax adviser (as defined in Regulation 3(4) to 3(8)), and those who act in the course of business as trust or company service providers under Regulation 3 (1)(e) of the 2007 Regulations (as defined in Regulation 3(10)). These services are referred to together for the purpose of this Guidance as the defined services.

Businesses that provide both accountancy services and trust or company services and that are supervised by HMRC should generally follow the this Guidance but also have regard to 'Appendix 10: Supplementary guidance for trust or company services providers' of the HMRC guide 'MLR 8 - Preventing money laundering and terrorist financing'.

- 1.5 This Guidance is not addressed to independent legal professionals, even where they are acting as tax advisers, insolvency practitioners or trust or company service providers. Independent legal professionals should refer to Guidance issued by their professional body or anti-money laundering supervisory authority. Where businesses have sub-contracted parts of their work for clients to other individuals or businesses situated outside of the United Kingdom, it is likely that those others will be subject to local anti-money laundering law and not to United Kingdom law in respect of the work undertaken by them. However, the responsibility of United Kingdom businesses and individuals for compliance with the 2007 Regulations and POCA and TA in respect of the conduct of their business, and in respect of information or other matters coming to them in the course of conducting that business, remains whether or not parts of the work are sub-contracted.
- 1.6 Regulation 3(7) defines external accountant as someone who provides accountancy services by way of business to other persons, when providing such services. The 2007 Regulations do not define the term accountancy services. For the purpose of this Guidance, Accountancy services includes, any service provided under a contract for services (ie, not a contract of employment) which pertains to the recording, review, analysis, calculation or reporting of financial information.
- 1.7 Employees of organisations which are not providing defined services are outside the scope of this Guidance. Those employed in other regulated sectors (financial services, law firms, estate agents, high value dealers or casinos) should have regard to Guidance issued by the employer's trade or professional body or anti-money laundering supervisory authority. Employees are not engaged in the regulated sector for the purposes of the anti-money laundering legislation, if their employer is not acting in the regulated sector. Nor are those providing services privately on an unremunerated and voluntary basis, since those services will not have been provided 'by way of business'. Services provided in the course of employment or business in defined services will however be included, even if provided to the client on a pro-bono or unremunerated basis.
- 1.8 All persons (including those outside the regulated sector) risk committing the money laundering offences and are required to report suspicions of terrorist financing formed in the course of their trade, profession or employment. However, those outside the regulated sector have no mandatory requirements for reporting knowledge or suspicions of non-terrorism related money laundering (although if they are themselves involved in the money laundering, reporting under s338, POCA (authorised disclosures) is required if the person is to benefit from the defence available in this regard under ss 327-329, POCA), or for maintaining anti-money laundering systems. Additional guidance on both the legal requirements and on the avoidance of money laundering risk, for accountants or tax advisers working outside the regulated sector, may be sought from an appropriate trade or professional body.
- 1.9 All businesses and individuals within the scope of this Guidance should have regard to its content, in respect of all defined services. Members and member firms of the CCAB member bodies and other professional bodies which adopt this Guidance should be aware that failure to take account of the provisions of this Guidance can give rise to a liability to disciplinary action. Businesses and individuals undertaking defined services who are supervised by HMRC should refer to the HMRC's web site to determine the likely effects of failure to take into account this Guidance.

- 1.10 It should also be noted that the way in which businesses and individuals apply the provisions of this Guidance will be likely to influence decisions by their professional bodies on whether they have complied with general ethical requirements, for example relating to integrity, the need to consider the public interest, or regulatory requirements.
- 1.11 Businesses and individuals may also need to have regard to Guidance issued by other standard setters, professional bodies or trade associations where this relates to particular specialist services. Additional Guidance should be read in conjunction with this Guidance. Such Guidance includes (but may not be limited to):
- Auditors – Auditing Practices Board Practice Note 12 ‘Money Laundering: Interim Guidance for Auditors in the UK’.
 - Tax advisers - Supplementary Guidance for Tax Practitioners (Appendix A).
- 1.12 This Guidance does not deal with the specific requirements of the Financial Services Authority (FSA). Accordingly, those providing financial services and regulated by the FSA should additionally refer to FSA requirements, which incorporate anti-money laundering Guidance issued by the Joint Money Laundering Steering Group (JMLSG).
- 1.13 However, this Guidance does cover the requirements of firms providing services under the Designated Professional Body provisions of Part XX, section 326 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000, or otherwise providing financial services under the oversight of their professional body. Such activities for the purpose of this Guidance are included within the scope of defined services.
- 1.14 As well as ‘business relationship’, the 2007 Regulations refer to ‘occasional transactions’, ie, those outside the business relationship valued at over €15,000. ‘Occasional transactions’ is a cogent term in a banking context but is difficult to apply in the context of accountancy services. Therefore this Guidance uses only ‘business relationship’, a more natural term for accountancy and related services, throughout.

ROLE OF SUPERVISORY BODIES

- 1.15 The 2007 Regulations require all businesses to be supervised by an appropriate anti-money laundering supervisory authority. For many businesses acting as external accountants and/or auditors, tax advisers or insolvency practitioners the supervisory authority will be the professional body to which they belong. A full list of approved supervisory authorities for the accountancy sector is set out in Schedule 3 to the 2007 Regulations, including all six CCAB member bodies and certain other accountancy and tax bodies. Those businesses that are not members of, or otherwise regulated by, one of the approved bodies will be supervised by HMRC. Where a business or individual is subject to more than one anti-money laundering supervisory authority the relevant anti-money laundering supervisory authorities may (Regulation 23 (2)) agree that one shall act in respect of that business or individual but they are not obliged to do so. Accordingly some businesses and individuals will continue to have to respond to more than one anti-money laundering supervisory authority.

LEGAL REQUIREMENTS AND STATUS OF THIS GUIDANCE

- 1.16 The legislation which embodies the UK anti-money laundering regime is contained in:

- The Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA) as amended by The Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (SOCPA) and relevant statutory instruments;
- The Terrorism Act 2000 (TA 2000) (as amended by the Anti Terrorism Crime and Security Act 2001 (ATCSA) and the Terrorism Act 2006 (TA 2006)) and relevant statutory instruments; and
- The Money Laundering Regulations 2007 (2007 Regulations) and relevant statutory instruments.

POCA and TA 2000 contain offences which may be committed by individuals or entities, whereas the 2007 Regulations deal with the systems and controls which businesses are required to have and contain offences which may be committed by businesses as well as the key individuals within them.

- 1.17 Approval by HM Treasury has been granted in relation to this Guidance. This means the Courts must have regard to the Guidance in deciding whether businesses or individuals affected by it have committed an offence under the 2007 Regulations or under ss330-331, POCA. Of course, this Guidance cannot be exhaustive. It may be necessary to seek advice either from trade or professional bodies, anti-money laundering supervisory authorities or other sources on issues and situations not covered by this Guidance.
- 1.18 This Guidance has been prepared on the basis that compliance with its requirements, and recommendations, will ensure compliance with relevant legislation and professional requirements. Within this Guidance, the term ‘must’ is used to indicate a legal or regulatory requirement and accordingly the use of this term indicates where following this Guidance is considered mandatory. Businesses and individuals may seek alternative interpretations of the UK anti-money laundering regime if they wish but they are recommended to consider the impact of any advice they receive on their obligations and be able to justify why they have preferred to implement an alternative interpretation. However, there are many instances where law and regulation does not prescribe the required actions. In such instances the term ‘should’ (and other terms suggesting possible ways in which Businesses and Individuals may approach matters subject to this Guidance) are used to indicate good practice methods that may be employed to meet statutory and regulatory requirements. Businesses and individuals need to consider the specific circumstances of their own situation in determining whether the suggested good practice methods are appropriate, or whether they consider alternative practices may be employed to achieve compliance with law and regulation. In all cases, Businesses and individuals need to be prepared to be able to explain to their anti-money laundering supervisory authority the rationale for their procedures and why they consider they are compliant with law and regulation.
- 1.19 Note that the UK anti-money laundering regime does not apply to some services that businesses may undertake and applying the regime’s requirements to all their services may in these cases be unnecessarily costly. This Guidance assumes that many businesses will find it easier, and more effective, to apply the requirements to all their services. However, it is a decision for each business to take. Where businesses choose to outsource or subcontract work to non-regulated entities, they should bear in mind that they remain subject to the obligation to maintain appropriate risk management procedures to prevent money laundering activity. In that context, they should consider whether the subcontracting increases the risk that they will be involved in or used for money laundering, in which case appropriate controls to address that risk should be put in place.

- 1.20 Those involved in the provision of management consultancy services or interim management should be particularly alert to the possibility that they could be within the scope of the anti-money laundering regime to the extent they supply any of the defined services when acting under a contract for services in the course of business.
- 1.21 Throughout this Guidance, businesses and individuals subject to the provisions of the UK anti-money laundering regime through being covered in Regulation 3, 2007 Regulations or Schedule 9 to POCA are referred to as being part of the regulated sector. Note that whilst POCA refers to those covered in Schedule 9 as ‘regulated’ persons and the 2007 Regulations refer to those covered by Regulation 3 as ‘relevant’ persons, those included in the two categories are identical.
- 1.22 Throughout this Guidance, the nominated officer required to be appointed by a business under the 2007 Regulations to receive disclosures in accordance with Part 7, POCA is referred to by the name commonly used in the regulated sector as a Money Laundering Reporting Officer or MLRO.

SECTION 2 – THE OFFENCES

KEY POINTS

- The three money laundering offences are those contained in ss327-329, the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA). The Terrorism Act 2000 (TA 2000) also creates similar offences relating to terrorist financing. In this Guidance, the term 'money laundering' will encompass terrorist financing activities.
- Detailed Guidance as to the provisions of the TA 2000 has not been provided as the requirements for the regulated sector are very similar to those contained in POCA which are described in detail. Reporting of terrorist financing suspicions is through the same channels as money laundering suspicions.
- The money laundering offences are framed very broadly and are designed to catch any activity in respect of criminal property, including possession of the proceeds of one's own criminal conduct.
- Criminal conduct is widely defined by s340, POCA to be conduct that is an offence in any part of the UK as well as conduct occurring elsewhere that would have been an offence if it had taken place in the UK. There are very limited exceptions to this for conduct which is both known to be legal in the country in which it is committed and which falls within the specific exceptions set out in orders made by the Secretary of State.
- Criminal property is defined by s340, POCA as being the benefit of criminal conduct where the alleged offender knows or suspects that the property in question represents such a benefit.
- Terrorist property is defined in s14, TA 2000 as money or property likely to be used for terrorist purposes, or the proceeds of commissioning or carrying out terrorist acts.
- The money laundering offences and the similar offences under TA 2000 can be committed by any person, whether or not they are part of the regulated sector. Defences available to any person charged with such offences include reporting to the appropriate authorities and obtaining consent. Individuals working in any business can commit, subject to limited exemptions, the offence of failing to disclose terrorist financing.
- There are three further types of POCA offences relevant to individuals to whom this Guidance relates. These are the failing to disclose offences in ss330-331, POCA (NB: s332 contains a similar offence relating to MLRO's outside of the regulated sector); tipping off (s333A, POCA); and prejudicing an investigation (s342, POCA). There are similar offences in ss19-21A, TA 2000.
- The offence of failing to make a money laundering disclosure (often referred to as failing to report) can be committed by any individual working in the regulated sector or by an MLRO working in other business. The offence of tipping off is set out in s333A, POCA which applies to those in the regulated sector only. The POCA offence of prejudicing an investigation can be committed by anyone. There are similar failing to disclose and tipping off offences contained in TA 2000.
- It is a criminal offence for a business not to comply with the 2007 Regulations, if that business is within their scope. It is also an offence for any partner, director or officer of the business, to consent to or connive at the non-compliance or by neglect to cause non-compliance.

WHAT IS MONEY LAUNDERING?

- 2.1 In UK law money laundering is defined very widely, and includes all forms of handling or possessing criminal property, including possessing the proceeds of one's own crime, and facilitating any handling or possession of criminal property. Criminal property may take any form, including in money or money's worth, securities, tangible property and intangible property. Money laundering can be carried out in respect of the proceeds of conduct that is an offence in the UK as well as most conduct occurring elsewhere that would have been an offence if it had taken place in the UK. For the purpose of this Guidance, money laundering is also taken to encompass activities relating to terrorist financing, including handling or possessing funds to be used for terrorist purposes as well proceeds from terrorism. Terrorism is taken to be the use or threat of action designed to influence government, or to intimidate any section of the public, or to advance a political, religious or ideological cause where the action would involve violence, threats to health and safety, damage to property or disruption of electronic systems. Materiality or de minimis exceptions are not available in relation to either money laundering or terrorist financing offences.

- 2.2 Money laundering activity may range from a single act, eg, being in possession of the proceeds of one's own crime, to complex and sophisticated schemes involving multiple parties, and multiple methods of handling and transferring criminal property as well as concealing it and entering into arrangements to assist others to do so. Businesses and individuals need to be alert to the risks of clients, their counterparties and others laundering money in any of its possible forms. The business or its client does not have to be a party to money laundering for a reporting obligation to arise (see section 3). Where criminal proceeds have already arisen, s340(11), POCA includes within the definition of money laundering any attempt, conspiracy or incitement to commit an offence under ss327-329, POCA as well as aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring an offence under ss327-329, POCA. In the case of terrorist financing, it is an offence to attempt to commit an offence under ss15-18, TA 2000 even if terrorist property has not come into being, eg, under s15(1), TA 2000 where the invitation to provide money or other property for terrorist financing is in itself an offence. Further, the definition of 'terrorist property' means that all dealings with funds or property which are likely to be used for the purposes of terrorism, even if the funds are "clean" in origin, is a terrorist financing offence.

MONEY LAUNDERING OFFENCES

- 2.3 Sections 327-329 in the Proceeds of Crime Act (POCA) (as amended by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (SOCPA)) define the money laundering offences. Anyone can commit one of these. Conviction of any of these offences is punishable by up to 14 years imprisonment and/or an unlimited fine. A person commits a money laundering offence if he:
- Conceals, disguises, converts or transfers criminal property, or removes criminal property from England and Wales, or from Scotland or from Northern Ireland (s327);
 - Enters into or becomes concerned in an arrangement which he knows or suspects facilitates (by whatever means) the acquisition, retention, use or control of criminal property by or on behalf of another person (s328); or
 - Acquires, uses or has possession of criminal property except where adequate consideration was given for the property (s329).
- 2.4 None of these offences are committed if:
- the persons involved did not know or suspect that they were dealing with the proceeds of crime; or
 - a report of the suspicious activity is made promptly to an MLRO (an internal report) or direct to SOCA (a suspicious activity report, or SAR) under the - provisions of s338, POCA, and (if the report is made before the act is committed) the appropriate consent is obtained before doing the act; or

- no report is made, there was a reasonable excuse for this failure (note that there is no money laundering case law on this issue and it is anticipated that only relatively extreme circumstances, such as duress, might be accepted); or
 - the act is committed by someone carrying out a law enforcement or judicial function; or
 - the conduct giving rise to the criminal property was reasonably believed to have taken place outside of the UK, and the conduct was in fact lawful under the criminal law of the place where it occurred, and the maximum sentence if the conduct had occurred in the UK would have been less than 12 months (except in the case of an act which would be an offence under the Gaming Act 1968, the Lotteries and Amusements Act 1976 or under ss23 or 25, FSMA, which will fall within the exemption even if the relevant sentence would be in excess of 12 months). In this Guidance, this is referred to as the overseas conduct exemption.
- 2.5 It should be noted that the tests relating to overseas conduct (set out in SI 2006 No1070 and in Section 2.4, final bullet, of this Guidance) are complex and onerous. These are very stringent tests, and as such individuals and businesses need to be cautious in their application.
- 2.6 There is a further exemption for deposit taking bodies (accountancy businesses holding clients' money cannot use this exemption) who may continue to run an account containing criminal property where the each transaction is less than the threshold amount (currently £250) set out in s339A, POCA.
- 2.7 Note that ss15-18, Terrorism Act 2000 (the TA 2000) also create similar offences (terrorist offences) to those contained in ss327-329, POCA but that there is no overseas conduct exemption or threshold amounts.

OFFENCES OF FAILING TO DISCLOSE

- 2.8 Individuals in the regulated sector commit an offence if they fail to make a disclosure in cases where they have knowledge or suspicion, or reasonable grounds for suspicion, that money laundering is occurring. Disclosure must be made to their MLRO or direct to SOCA under ss330, POCA. In this Guidance, disclosure to an MLRO is referred to as an internal report and to SOCA as a suspicious activity report or SAR. MLROs have a duty to make disclosures under s331, POCA if they have knowledge, suspicion or reasonable ground to suspect money laundering as a consequence of an internal report. The s332 failure to disclose offence is similar and would apply to an MLRO in a business outside of the regulated sector, including an MLRO appointed to deal with reports emanating from non-regulated business within a business that conducted both regulated, and non-regulated services, in respect of suspicions arising from internal reports. This is not further addressed in this Guidance. These offences are punishable by imprisonment of up to 5 years and/or an unlimited fine.
- 2.9 Similar provisions regarding failure to disclose are contained in s19, and 21A, TA 2000. The s19 failure to report offence is applicable to anyone in employment or business outside of the regulated sector, with s21A being applicable to all those in the regulated sector.

The failure to disclose offence under Sections 330 and 331 POCA

- 2.10 The failure to disclose offence in s330 is committed if an individual fails to make a report comprising the required disclosure as soon as is practicable either in the form of an internal report to his MLRO or in the form of a SAR to a person authorised by the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) to receive disclosures. The obligation to make the required disclosure arises when:
- a person knows or suspects, or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting that another person is engaged in money laundering;
 - the information or other matter on which the above is based came to him in the course of business in the regulated sector;
 - he either can identify that other person, or has information concerning the whereabouts of the laundered property or the information he has may assist in identifying the person or the whereabouts of the property (the laundered property is that which forms the subject of the matter of the known or suspected money laundering).
- 2.11 An MLRO is obliged to report if he is satisfied that the information received in internal reports meets the tests set out in 2.10. An MLRO may commit the s331, POCA offence if he fails to pass on reportable information in internal reports that he has received, as soon as is practicable, to SOCA.

Required Disclosure

- 2.12 Individuals need to take care to ensure that any information held by them which is part of the required disclosure, ie, the identity of the suspect (if known), the information or other matter on which the knowledge or suspicion of money laundering (or reasonable grounds for such) is based and the whereabouts of the laundered property (if known) is passed as soon as is practicable to the MLRO. Additional information held by the individual which identifies other parties involved in or connected to the matter should also be given to the MLRO.
- 2.13 Further Guidance on the making of SARs, including the appropriate form and manner of reporting, is given in sections 5 and 6 below.

Defences and exemptions

- 2.14 There are defences to and exemptions from the failing to disclose offences as follows:
- there is reasonable excuse for not making a report (note that there is no money laundering case law on this issue and it is anticipated that only relatively extreme circumstances, such as duress and threats to safety, might be accepted); or
 - the privilege reporting exemption (see sections 7.26 to 7.46 below) applies; or
 - the individual does not actually know or suspect money laundering has occurred and has not been provided by his employer with the training required by the 2007 Regulations (Regulation 21). If the employer has failed to provide the training, this is an offence on the part of the employer. The effect for the individual who has not been provided with training is that the objective test (of being required to report if there are 'reasonable grounds' for knowledge or suspicion) is removed; or

- it is known, or believed on reasonable grounds, that the money laundering is occurring outside the UK, and is not unlawful under the criminal law of the country where it is occurring.

In determining whether an offence has been committed under ss330 and 331, the Courts must have regard to the content of this Guidance [Subject to HMT approval] when applied to an individual delivering defined services or to an MLRO.

- 2.15 Whilst an individual in the regulated sector has a duty to report, other persons may voluntarily report to SOCA and also receive the protections available both in terms of potentially creating a defence to a money laundering offence and also the protection against accusations of breach of confidentiality providing the report is properly made under the provisions of either of ss337 and 338, POCA (See section 6.10) as appropriate.

TIPPING OFF

- 2.16 The offence of Tipping off was previously set out in s333, POCA, but was removed by statutory instrument (effective from 26 December 2007) The s333, POCA offence meant anyone not acting in the course of a business in the regulated sector could commit this offence which consisted of:

- knowing or suspecting that a report has been made either to an MLRO or to SOCA (under either s337 or s338, POCA); and
- making any disclosure which he knows or suspects is likely to prejudice any investigation that might follow that report.

There were limited exceptions relating to persons carrying out law enforcement or judicial functions, and to legal advisers acting in privileged circumstances provided the disclosure is not made with the intention of furthering a criminal purpose.

The penalty for this offence is a maximum of 5 years imprisonment, or an unlimited fine, or both.

- 2.17 Section 333, POCA is replaced by s333A POCA which applies only to the regulated sector. The criminal offence of tipping off in s333A, POCA arises where a person in the regulated sector discloses either:

- that a disclosure has been made by a person of information obtained in the course of a regulated sector business either to an MLRO or to SOCA (under either s337 or s338, POCA) or to any other person authorised by SOCA to receive disclosures, or to the police or HMRC and the disclosure is likely to prejudice any investigation that might be conducted following the disclosure referred to; or
- that an investigation into allegations that a money laundering offence has been committed, is being contemplated or is being carried out and the disclosure is likely to prejudice that investigation and the information disclosed came to the person in the course of a business in the regulated sector.

A tipping off offence will not be committed under s333A, POCA if the person did not know or suspect that the disclosure was likely to prejudice any investigation that followed.

The penalty for this offence on summary conviction is a maximum of three months imprisonment, or a fine on scale 5, or both and on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or a fine or both. There are a number of exceptions to this prohibition on revealing the existence of a report or an actual or contemplated investigation which are as follows:

- Disclosures within an undertaking or group etc, (s333B): a person does not commit an offence if he makes a disclosure to another person employed by the same undertaking as him, and nor does an independent legal professional or a relevant professional adviser commit an offence if the disclosure is made to another independent legal professional or a relevant professional adviser where both the person making the disclosure and the person to whom it is made are in either an EEA state or a state imposing equivalent anti-money laundering requirements and those persons perform their professional activities within different undertakings that shares common ownership, management or control.
- Other permitted disclosures between institutions etc (s333C): an independent legal professional or a relevant professional adviser does not commit an offence if he makes a disclosure to another person of the same kind from a different undertaking but of the same professional standing as himself (including as to duties of professional confidentiality and the protection of personal data) where the disclosure relates to the same client or former client of both advisers and involves a transaction or provisions of a service that involved them both, the disclosure is only made for the purpose of preventing a money laundering offence and the disclosure is made to a person in an EU Member State or a State imposing an equivalent money laundering requirements. This means that eg, an accountant may only disclose to another accountant, and not to a lawyer or another kind of relevant professional adviser.
- Other permitted disclosures (general) (s333D): an offence is not committed if a disclosure is made to a anti-money laundering supervisory authority by virtue of the Money Laundering Regulations 2007 or for the purpose of the prevention, investigation or prosecution of a criminal offence in the UK or elsewhere, an investigation under POCA, or enforcement of any order of a court under POCA. In addition, and of importance to those who are relevant professional advisers, an offence is not committed by a relevant professional adviser if he makes the disclosure to his client for the purpose of dissuading the client from engaging in conduct amounting to an offence.

2.18 Any of the tipping off offences contained in s333A, POCA will only occur in the circumstances described, but there may be circumstances where a money launderer may be alerted to the possibility that a report will be or has been made or an investigation conducted, other than by a disclosure of such fact eg, by unexpected delay caused by waiting on consent. These have been distinguished in this Guidance by use of the phrase 'alerting a launderer'. Businesses will also need to take care to guard against alerting a launderer, as part of their policies and procedures aimed at preventing operations related to money laundering.

2.19 A tipping off disclosure may be made in writing or verbally, and either directly or indirectly – including through inclusion of relevant information in published information. Considerable care is required in carrying out any communications with clients or third parties following a report. Before any disclosure is made relating to matters referred to in an internal report or SAR, it is important to consider carefully whether or not it is likely to constitute offences of tipping off or prejudicing an investigation. It is suggested that businesses keep records of these deliberations and the conclusions reached (sections 7.10 and 7.11).

- 2.20 However, individuals and businesses in the regulated sector will frequently need to continue to deliver their professional services and a way needs to be found to achieve this without falling foul of the tipping off offence. Section 333D(2) is of assistance in this regard (disclosure to his client for the purpose of dissuading the client from engaging in conduct amounting to a money laundering offence). More Guidance on acting for a client after a money laundering suspicion has been formed is given in section 9.

PREJUDICING AN INVESTIGATION

- 2.21 This offence is set out in s342, POCA. This offence is committed where a person:

- knows or suspects that a money laundering, confiscation or civil recovery investigation is being conducted or is about to be conducted; and
- makes a disclosure which is likely to prejudice the investigation; or
- falsifies, conceals or destroys documents relevant to the investigation, or causes that to happen.

As with tipping off offences, the person making the disclosure does not have to intend to prejudice an investigation for this offence to apply. However, there is a defence available if the person making the disclosure did not know or suspect the disclosure would be prejudicial, did not know or suspect the documents were relevant, or did not intend to conceal any facts from the person carrying out the investigation.

- 2.22 There are limited exceptions relating to persons carrying out law enforcement or judicial functions, and to legal advisers acting in privileged circumstances provided the disclosure is not made with the intention of furthering a criminal purpose.
- 2.23 Considerations similar to those set out under tipping off above apply in terms of how the offence may be committed and of taking precautions to ensure any disclosure made does not prejudice an investigation. Businesses should ensure they have sufficient document retention policies in place (see Section 3.9 of this Guidance – Record Keeping) to meet the needs of this section of POCA and the 2007 Regulations, as well as their legal and professional obligations more generally.

KNOWLEDGE AND SUSPICION

Knowledge or suspicion?

- 2.24 An offence is committed by an individual in the regulated sector if he fails to report where he has knowledge, suspicion or reasonable grounds for suspecting money laundering activity. There is no definition of knowledge or suspicion within POCA and so interpretation of their meaning will rely on judgements in past legal cases, as well as this Guidance and on the ordinary meaning of the words.
- 2.25 Having knowledge means actually knowing that something is the case.
- 2.26 Case law suggests that suspicion is a state of mind more definite than speculation, but falls short of knowledge based on evidence. It must be based on some evidence, even if that evidence is tentative – simple speculation that a client may be money laundering is not sufficient grounds to form a suspicion. Similarly, a general assumption that low levels of crime (eg, not declaring all cash takings) are endemic in particular industry sectors does not amount to reasonable grounds for suspicion of particular clients operating in that sector.

- 2.27 A frequently used description is that ‘...A suspicion that something exists is more than a mere idle wondering whether it exists or not; it is a positive feeling of actual apprehension or mistrust, amounting to a “slight opinion, but without sufficient evidence”’ (Queensland Bacon PTY Ltd v Rees [1966] 115 CLR 266 at 303, per Kitto J). In another more recent case, Da Silva [2006] EWCA Crim 1654, ‘It seems to us that the essential element in the word “suspect” and its affiliates, in this context, is that the defendant must think that there is a possibility, which is more than fanciful, that the relevant facts exist. A vague feeling of unease would not suffice.’
- 2.28 Money laundering occurs only when criminal property has accrued to someone from a criminal act. In addition, it must be borne in mind that for property to be criminal property not only must it constitute a person’s benefit from criminal conduct, but the alleged offender (ie, the person alleged to be laundering criminal property) must know or suspect that the property constitutes such a benefit. This means, for instance, that if someone has made an innocent error, even if such an error resulted in benefit and constituted a strict liability criminal offence, then the proceeds are not criminal property for the purposes of POCA and no money laundering offence has arisen until and unless the offender becomes aware of the error (eg, s167(3), Customs and Excise Management Act 1979). MLROs need to consider carefully before reporting whether the information or other matter they intend to report meets these criteria. Examples of unlawful behaviour which may be observed, and may well result in advice to a client to correct an issue, but which are not reportable as money laundering are given below:

- offences where no proceeds or benefit results, such as the late filing of company accounts. However, businesses and individuals should be alert to the possibility that persistent failure to file accounts could represent part of a larger offence with proceeds, such as fraudulent trading or credit fraud involving the concealment of a poor financial position.
- misstatements in tax returns, for whatever cause, but which are corrected before the date when the tax becomes due.
- attempted frauds where the attempt has failed and so no benefit has accrued (although as this may still be a Fraud Act offence in England, Wales and Northern Ireland or the common law offence of fraud in Scotland, individuals and businesses may wish to consider reporting to their local police force or, once operational, the ‘National Fraud Reporting Centre’). This includes ‘419’¹ letters and other attempted advanced fee frauds where there is no knowledge of benefit accruing. In the case of such letters, individuals and businesses may wish to consider following the guidance on the Metropolitan Police Fraud Alert internet pages (www.met.police.uk/fraudalert).

Where a client refuses to correct, or unreasonably delays in correcting, an innocent error that gave rise to proceeds and which was unlawful, businesses should consider what that indicates about the client’s intent and whether the property has therefore now become criminal property.

Reasonable grounds for knowledge or suspicion

- 2.29 Individuals in the regulated sector must make an internal report or a SAR, as applicable, if there are ‘reasonable grounds’ for knowledge or suspicion, as well as actual knowledge or suspicion. This 'reasonable grounds' test creates an objective test – persons in the regulated sector will not be able to rely on an assertion of ignorance or naivety where this would not be reasonable to expect of a person with their training and position. For example, a person might be considered to have reasonable grounds for knowledge of money laundering if he had actual knowledge of, or possessed information which would indicate to a reasonable person, that another person was committing or had committed a money laundering offence; or had deliberately ignored the obvious inference from information (ie., wilfully shutting one's eyes) known to him that another person was committing or had committed a money laundering offence. Please note that the interpretation of 'reasonable grounds' has not, as yet, been tested by the courts for the purposes of POCA.

- 2.30 'Reasonable grounds' should not be confused with the existence of higher than normal risk factors which may affect certain sectors or classes of persons. For example, cash-based businesses or complex overseas trust and company structures may be capable of being used to launder money, but this capability of itself is not considered to constitute 'reasonable grounds'.
- 2.31 Existence of higher than normal risk factors require increased attention to gathering and evaluation of 'know your client' information, and heightened awareness of the risk of money laundering in performing professional work, but do not of themselves require a report of suspicion to be made. For 'reasonable grounds' to come into existence, there needs to be sufficient information to advance beyond speculation that it is merely possible someone is laundering money, or a higher than normal incidence of some types of crime in particular sectors.
- 2.32 It is important that individuals do not turn a blind eye to information, but make reasonable enquiries such as a professional with their qualifications, experience and expertise might be expected to make in such a situation within the normal scope of their assignment or client relationship, and draw a reasonable conclusion such as may be expected of a person of their standing. Individuals should exercise a healthy level of professional scepticism, and if unsure of the action that should be taken, consult with their MLRO or otherwise in accordance with their businesses' procedures. If in doubt, individuals should err on the side of caution and make a report to their MLRO.

NON-COMPLIANCE WITH THE MONEY LAUNDERING REGULATIONS

- 2.33 It is a criminal offence for a business not to comply with the 2007 Regulations, if it is within their scope. An offence may also be committed by any partner, director or officer of the business, who has consented to or connived at the non-compliance or where the non-compliance is attributable to his neglect.
- 2.34 The relevant offences are referred to below. Individuals and businesses should appreciate that there are a wide range of requirements in respect of which failure to comply could be considered to be a criminal offence.
- 2.35 The offences are set out in Regulation 45 and those which are relevant to the provision of defined services relate to:
- Regulation 7 – failure to apply customer due diligence measures
 - Regulation 8 – failure to apply ongoing monitoring of business relationships and customer due diligence

- Regulation 9 – failure to comply with the requirements on timing of verification of identity of clients and any beneficial owner
- Regulation 11 – continuing with transaction/business relationship where unable to apply customer due diligence measures
- Regulation 14 – failure to apply enhanced customer due diligence and ongoing monitoring where required
- Regulation 18 – failing to follow a direction made by HM Treasury under this regulation (directions where FATF applies counter-measures)
- Regulation 19 – failure to keep the required records
- Regulation 20 – failure to establish, maintain, monitor and manage the required policies and procedures
- Regulation 21 – failure to take appropriate measures to provide the required training
- Regulations 26, 27 – failures regarding certain registration procedures where the Commissioners (HMRC) are the supervisory body (not applicable to those supervised by a body listed in Schedule 3)
- Regulation 33 – failure to comply with registration requirements specified by the Commissioners (not applicable to those supervised by a body listed in Schedule 3)

2.36 Further Guidance on compliance with the 2007 Regulations is given in sections 3 to 7 below. As Treasury approval has been obtained the Courts are obliged to take into account compliance with this Guidance, in deciding whether an offence has been committed.

SECTION 3 - ANTI MONEY LAUNDERING SYSTEMS AND CONTROLS

KEY POINTS

Under the Money Laundering Regulations 2007 (2007 Regulations) businesses are required to establish appropriate risk-sensitive policies and procedures in order to prevent activities related to money laundering and terrorist financing including those policies and procedures which provide for:

- identification and scrutiny of complex or unusually large transactions, unusual patterns of transactions with no apparent economic or lawful purpose and other activities regarded by the regulated person as likely to be of the nature of money laundering or terrorist financing;
- prevention of use of products favouring anonymity;
- determination of whether a client is a PEP;
- customer due diligence, ie, procedures designed to acquire knowledge about the firm's clients and prospective clients and to verify their identity as well as monitor business relationships and transactions;
- internal reporting including appointment of an MLRO to receive the money laundering reports required under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA) and the Terrorism Act (TA 2000) and a system for making those reports;
- record keeping, including details of customer due diligence and supporting evidence for business relationships, which need to be kept for five years after the end of a relationship and records of transactions, which also need to be kept for five years;
- internal control, risk assessment and management, compliance monitoring, management and communication; and
- in addition, businesses are required to take measures to make relevant employees aware of the law relating to money laundering and terrorist finance, and to train those employees in how to recognise and deal with transactions which may be related to money laundering or terrorist financing.

In order to ensure compliance is appropriately managed, businesses will need to ensure sufficient senior management oversight, appropriate analysis and assessment of the risks of clients and work/product types, systems for monitoring compliance with procedures and methods of communicating procedures and other information to personnel.

INTRODUCTION

- 3.1 POCA offences may be committed not only by individuals and businesses in the regulated sector but by any person. In contrast, the 2007 Regulations impose obligations on businesses in the regulated sector as to the systems and controls they need to have in place to meet the requirements of the UK anti-money laundering regime. Under these regulations, not only must each business put anti-money laundering systems and controls in place but it also has a duty to ensure that relevant staff are aware of these systems and are appropriately trained. Businesses are explicitly required to monitor and manage their compliance with the 2007 Regulations, to ensure continued observation of the requirements.

- 3.2 Individuals involved in the failure of businesses to meet their obligations under the 2007 Regulations may be subject to criminal sanction, as may the business itself. Criminal sanctions for breach of the 2007 Regulations only apply directly to the individuals working within a business when their neglect, connivance or consent has led to the failure to comply by the business.

THE REQUIREMENTS

- 3.3 The 2007 Regulations' requirements of businesses are contained in the following Parts:

- customer due diligence (Part 2 of the 2007 Regulations); and
- record-keeping, procedures and training (Part 3 of the 2007 Regulations).

Systems

- 3.4 The 2007 Regulations place requirements on businesses to have in place a wide range of systems in order to prevent operations related to money laundering or terrorist financing. The requirements cover the following issues. Where a separate section of this Guidance deals in detail with this matter, this is shown after the relevant heading, the other matters are dealt with in this section:

- customer due diligence and ongoing monitoring (see section 5 of this Guidance);
- reporting procedures (see sections 6 and 7 of this Guidance);
- record-keeping;
- internal control;
- risk assessment and management (see section 4 of this Guidance);
- compliance management; and
- communication.

- 3.5 The level of detail in the 2007 Regulations as to what the requirements mean varies considerably, with customer due diligence being explained in some detail in Part 2 of the 2007 Regulations, and with some detail being provided in respect of internal reporting procedures (Regulation 15) and record-keeping (Regulation 19). The 2007 Regulations are less comprehensive on what is expected in respect of internal control, risk assessment and management, compliance management and communication.

- 3.6 Businesses need to establish systems that create an internal environment or culture in which people are aware of their responsibilities under the UK anti-money laundering regime and where they understand that they are expected to fulfil those responsibilities with appropriate diligence. In deciding what systems to install, a business will need to consider a range of matters including:

- the type, scale and complexity of its operations;
- the number of different business types it is involved in;
- the types of services it offers, and its client profiles;
- how it sells its services;
- the type of business transactions it becomes involved in or advises on; and
- the risks associated with each area of its business in terms of the risks of the business or its services being used for money laundering or terrorist operations, or the risks of its clients and their counterparties being involved in such operations.

3.7 Businesses should allocate responsibility for internal controls and effective risk management to a member of senior management, and should also ensure that the appointed MLRO has sufficient seniority and authority to carry out his task, whether or not these two functions are held by the same person. All businesses will need systems and controls, appropriate to the size and nature of their business, sufficient to achieve the following:

- determination and recording of the firm's systems for anti-money laundering awareness, client acceptance, customer due diligence and on-going monitoring requirements (including whether a customer is a PEP), consultation with and internal reporting to the MLRO (where applicable – sole practitioners with no staff and no associates are not required to have internal reporting procedures or an MLRO), and dissemination of such policies and procedures to all relevant staff;
- development and documentation of the firm's risk assessment of its business;
- training of all relevant staff, including systems and controls to ensure training is taken/attended and understood;
- methods for identification of topical update material and its dissemination as appropriate to senior management and other personnel;
- systems for periodic testing that policies and procedures comply with legislative and regulatory requirements;
- monitoring the compliance of the business with the policy and procedures including reporting to senior management on compliance and addressing any identified deficiencies.

3.8 In addition, businesses are recommended to maintain the following additional systems, for effective internal control and risk management:

- detailed documentation of policies and procedures in relation to matters not routinely a matter for client facing staff, such as customer due diligence for higher risk clients; information provision to senior management, training, awareness and compliance monitoring, and the role of the MLRO;
- provision in new product/service development processes for consideration of new services or business areas from an anti-money laundering perspective, and update of policy and procedure where appropriate;
- consideration at appropriate intervals of the business profile and whether the firm's risk assessment and/or policy and procedures require updating in response.

Appropriate systems might also include a policy of acceptance of new clients being reserved to partners or other senior personnel, who may wish to refer to the MLRO for advice, if it is proposed to accept clients from outside the usual and well understood client base of the firm.

Record-keeping

3.9 Records must be kept of clients' identity, the supporting evidence of verification of identity (in each case including the original and any updated records), the firm's business relationships with them (ie,. including any non-engagement related documents relating to the client relationship) and details of any occasional transactions and details of monitoring of the relationship. These records must be kept for five years after the end of the relevant business relationships or completion of the transactions. Care is needed to ensure retention of historic, as well as current records. Businesses are also recommended to store securely information relating to both internal reports and SARs for at least the same period, ie,. at least five years after receipt by the MLRO. Documentation of reports is dealt with in further detail in section 7 below. Shown below is a summary of record-keeping requirements specified in the 2007 Regulations for customer due diligence and business relationships/occasional transactions and Guidance in respect of retention of internal reporting procedures and training records for which specific guidance is not given in the 2007 Regulations.

Record	Retention period	Comments
Specified in the 2007 Regulations
i) Client identification, including evidence of identity	5 years from end of business relationship . ²	Care should be taken to ensure that records are not destroyed by one department, while another is still within the five year retention period or has undertaken new business with the client . Where a business is engaged with several different activities with a client , it may decide to keep details of customer due diligence within each part of the firm so engaged, or to maintain central files, depending on its internal organisation. Evidence of client identity can be held in a variety of forms, eg, in hard copy or in electronic form in accordance with the document retention policies employed within the business .
ii) Business relationships	5 years from the date when all activities in relation to the business relationship were completed - except in the case of particular transactions within that business relationship the retention period is 5 years from the date on which the transaction	Records of business relationships and occasional transactions (ie,. client assignment working papers and related documents) also need to be maintained for 5 years from the end of the relationship or transaction. For particular transactions within a business relationship , the records for the particular transaction need only be retained for 5 years from the completion of that transaction. In the context of provision of defined services it would be reasonable to treat each engagement or assignment as a 'particular transaction'. As businesses will need to maintain records for a wide range of purposes that comply with both legal and professional requirements for retention of documentation, it is not anticipated that any special system should be needed but that the general document retention systems employed within the

	was completed	business , provided they meet these standards, should be sufficient.
Not specified in the 2007 Regulations
iii) Suspicious activities	Not prescribed	Records of internal reports , the MLRO 's consideration of them, any subsequent reporting decision and issues connected to consent, production of documents etc are a vital record as they may form the basis of a defence to accusations of money laundering and related offences. For this reason, it is recommended that such records are retained for at least 5 years after being made and possibly longer, at least whilst the business relationship continues. Records of internal reports are not considered to form part of client assignment working papers and so it is recommended that such records are kept, in a secure form separately from the businesses ' normal methods for retaining client work documents. This is to guard against inadvertent disclosure to any party who may have or seek access to the client working paper files where the existence of otherwise of an internal report or SAR is not relevant to the purpose for which they are examining the files.
iv) Training	Not prescribed	We recommend that evidence of assessment of training needs and steps taken to meet such needs is retained. Businesses should determine a retention period in the light of their normal retention period for training and other internal records, but we recommend they be kept for at least 5 years in order to demonstrate a continuing compliance with current and previous regulations.

Reporting procedures

- 3.10 A business's internal procedures should clearly set out what is expected of individuals who form suspicions or obtain knowledge of possible money laundering. The reports can take any form specified by the business in internal procedures, eg, phone calls, emails, in writing, supplemented by copies of third party documents and working papers but businesses should ensure that, whatever forms the reporting takes, relevant personnel are aware of the procedures to be used. Consideration should be given to how to minimise the number of copies of reporting information held within a business. Businesses may wish to consider whether it is advisable to specify telephone or face to face contact with the MLRO as the preferred initial reporting step, with the reporting records being created by the MLRO, supplemented as necessary with copy information from client files.
- 3.11 It is recommended that all details of internal reports are held by the MLRO and excluded from client files. The duty to report is a matter which does not fall within the delivery of professional services to clients and accordingly reporting details are not required to be placed on client files. Exclusion of information from client files assists in avoiding inadvertent or inappropriate disclosure of information and provides some protection against the threat of tipping off. Client files should retain only that information relevant to, and required for, the professional work being undertaken. It should be noted that anti-money laundering supervisory authorities have an obligation under Regulation 24 (2) to make reports of suspicion. However, the law is not clear as to the interaction of the POCA privilege reporting exemption (Section 7.26-7.46) and the 2007 Regulations and unless this is resolved, there remains the risk of an anti-money laundering supervisory authority reporting a matter that was properly the subject of the privilege reporting exemption. Keeping internal reporting papers separate from client files may assist in mitigating this risk but is not a complete solution.

- 3.12 Further Guidance is given for individuals, on forming suspicions and making internal reports is given in section 6 and Guidance for MLROs in checking and validating internal reports and making SARs to SOCA in section 7.

Communication and Training

- 3.13 The 2007 Regulations provide that all 'relevant' employees are required to be 'made aware' of law relating to money laundering and terrorist financing, and regularly given training in how to recognise and deal with transactions which may be related to money laundering or terrorist financing. Though the 2007 Regulations contain no express requirement, it is considered to be best practice for these provisions to be applied to all partners in firms and to sole practitioners and it is likely to be necessary to train all client-facing staff (see section 3.15 below).
- 3.14 In considering a training plan, businesses need to keep in mind the objectives they are trying to achieve, which is to create an environment effective in preventing money laundering and which thereby helps protect individuals and the business.
- 3.15 When considering which staff may be considered relevant, businesses should consider not only those who have involvement in client work, but also, where appropriate, those who deal with the business finances, and those who deal with procuring services on behalf of the business and who manage those services. Accordingly, it is likely that all client-facing staff will be considered relevant and at least the senior support staff. Businesses may decide to provide comprehensive training to all relevant staff members, or may chose to tailor its provision to match more closely the role of the employees concerned. In particular, MLROs may require supplementary training, and members of senior management may also benefit from a customised approach or some supplementary training.
- 3.16 A training programme for relevant staff needs to contain content on the law and content which puts this into the context in which the business operates, to enable recognition of suspected money laundering in that context, and which illustrates the 'red flags' which staff should be aware of in conducting business. The core elements of law making up the UK anti-money laundering and anti-terrorism regime, are set out in this Guidance (in particular in section 2). In addition, businesses may wish to include reference to other elements of law where criminal penalties may be applied and where these relate directly to the work of the individual or business, eg, an FSA approved person might be expected to have a reasonable working knowledge of the parts of FSMA 2000 relevant to his work. Whilst it is not necessary for relevant personnel to develop specialist knowledge of criminal law in general, they may reasonably be expected to apply the general legal and business knowledge which might normally be held by a person of their role and experience in determining whether to make a report to the MLRO.
- 3.17 Training also needs to cover how to deal with transactions which might be related to money laundering and terrorist financing. This would include training on the businesses' internal consultation and advisory systems (to assist individuals in assessing whether they have a valid suspicion) internal reporting systems and the businesses' expectations for confidentiality and the avoidance of tipping off and alerting a money launderer. Further Guidance on recognising money laundering by those undertaking defined services is given in section 6.

- 3.18 As regards the frequency of training, this is a matter for each business to consider. It may be influenced by changes in law, regulation or professional guidance, by new case law or national/international findings, or by a change in the profile and perceived risks of the business. Each business should consider the frequency of its training, possibly on an annual basis, and document its assessment as to whether the current training and state of awareness of employees is sufficient, or whether a supplement is needed. It may not be necessary to repeat the whole of a training programme on a regular basis, but it may be possible to provide concise update material which accomplishes the dual role of refreshing or expanding knowledge and generally reminding staff of the importance of effective anti-money laundering work.
- 3.19 Training methods may be selected to suit the size, complexity and culture of the business, and may be delivered in a variety of ways including face to face, self-study, e-learning and video, or a combination of methods. Businesses should keep records of attendance at, or completion of, training and are recommended to provide for some form of test or other confirmation of understanding of the training.
- 3.20 Should a business fail to make provision for the training of relevant employees, then under s330 (7), POCA a member of staff who does not know or suspect someone is engaged in money laundering gains a defence against the failure to disclose offence (ie, if there is only reasonable grounds for knowledge or suspicion and the staff member fails to make an internal report). However, such an omission is likely to open the business to the risk of prosecution for breach of the 2007 Regulations. The significance of training records to both individuals, and businesses is reflected in the recommendation in section 3.9.
- 3.21 Businesses need to make arrangements to ensure new staff are trained as soon as possible after they join the business.

SECTION 4 – THE RISK BASED APPROACH

KEY POINTS

- A risk based approach allows businesses to target resource and effort where the risk is greatest and, conversely, reduce requirements where the risk is low.
- Businesses must establish adequate and appropriate policies and procedures relating to risk assessment and management in order to prevent operations related to money laundering or terrorist financing.
- Businesses must—
 - (a) determine the extent of customer due diligence measures (section 5) on a risk-sensitive basis depending on the type of client, business relationship, or services to be provided;
 - (b) be able to demonstrate to their anti-money laundering supervisory authorities that the extent of customer due diligence measures is appropriate in view of the risks of money laundering and terrorist financing.
- Businesses are required to take a risk-based approach and have adequate measures to verify the identity of beneficial owners so that they are satisfied that they know who the beneficial owner is and what the control structure is in respect of a client who is other than a natural person (Regulation 5(1)(b)).
- Businesses are required to undertake scrutiny of transactions and other activities throughout the course of a business relationship to ensure consistency with businesses' and individuals' knowledge of the client, his business and risk profile.
- Businesses must also keep up-to-date the information collected in applying customer due diligence measures.
- Businesses must apply customer due diligence measures at appropriate times to existing clients on a risk-sensitive basis.

RISK ASSESSMENT AND MANAGEMENT

Policies and Procedures

- 4.1 All businesses must have appropriate policies and procedures for assessment and management of the risk of the business being used for money laundering, of failing to recognise it where it occurs and report it when required. A risk-based approach to anti-money laundering incurs cost which is proportionate to this risk, focusing effort where it is needed and has most impact.
- 4.2 Professional firms are likely to already have in place policies and procedures to minimise professional, client and legal risk. Anti-money laundering procedures and policies may be integrated into existing risk management systems or be controlled separately. In either case, anti-money laundering policies and procedures should be valuable to businesses, in contributing to the control of risks to both businesses and individuals in this and other areas.

Risk profile

- 4.3 The development of a money laundering risk profile for the business enables a risk-based policy and approach to be developed, and thus to determine the most cost effective and proportionate way to manage and mitigate the money laundering and terrorist financing risks faced by the business. The risk profile of a business is determined by:
- identifying the money laundering and terrorist financing risks that are relevant to the business; and
 - designing and implementing controls to manage and mitigate these risks, and record their operation.

Managing compliance

- 4.4 Businesses are required to monitor and manage their compliance with and internal communication of their policies and procedures and this includes their systems for risk assessment and management, as well as their other anti-money laundering policies and procedures (Regulation 20 (1)). All such systems should be managed through monitoring the operation of the controls, updating them where necessary and assessing whether they have been effective. Businesses may come into contact with activity in the client's business which they perceive as likely, by its nature, to be related to money laundering or terrorist financing (in particular, complex or unusually large transactions and all unusual patterns of transactions which have no apparent economic or visible lawful purpose). In those circumstances, businesses have a duty to pay special attention to such an activity.
- 4.5 Businesses can decide for themselves how to carry out their risk assessment, which may be simple or sophisticated depending on the nature of their practice. Where the practice is simple, involving few service lines, with most clients falling into similar categories, a simple approach may be appropriate for most clients, with the focus being on those clients that fall outside the norm.
- 4.6 A risk-based approach can never, by its nature, be an error-free system. However, it ensures the most cost effective results by directing the attention of businesses to the risks relating to different clients and services, in order to determine what level of knowledge and verification is required when establishing a business relationship and in conducting that relationship.

THE RISK-BASED APPROACH

- 4.7 Each business needs to make a reasoned decision as to how it intends to manage money laundering risk. A risk-based approach does, however, enable a business to target its effort on conducting customer due diligence more effectively with increased depth of work being conducted where the risks are perceived, on a rational basis, to be higher.
- 4.8 Senior management engagement and commitment is needed to produce and embed a successful risk-based approach, and it also needs effective communication to all staff members who need to use it.
- 4.9 Businesses may assess the money laundering risks of:
- different products and services,
 - client types and sectors, and

- the jurisdictions of client origin, funding, investment and conduct of business.

and apply a simple risk categorisation of low/normal/high on the basis of these categories. Such an approach is valid, and should be capable of minimising complexity, but needs to retain an element of discretion and flexibility where risk ratings may be raised or lowered with appropriate management input in response to particular or exceptional circumstances.

4.10 Businesses may also wish to consider the different types of risk to which they are exposed. These risks may include

- being used in an active sense to launder money through the handling of cash or assets,
- becoming concerned in an arrangement which facilitates money laundering, through the provision of investment services or the provision of trust or company services.
- risks attaching to the client and/or those who trade with or otherwise interact with clients as regards their potential for involvement in money laundering.

4.11 A simple matrix prepared from a risk-assessment of the factors considered above may be prepared to provide a basic framework for the categorisation of clients and engagements, and to direct the depth and type of customer due diligence accordingly.

4.12 Chapter 4 of the JMLSG Guidance notes provides useful additional guidance on the risk-based approach

Developing and applying a risk based approach

4.13 In developing a risk-based approach, businesses need to ensure it is readily comprehensible and easy to use for all relevant staff. In cases of doubt or complexity, businesses may wish to consider putting in place procedures where queries may be referred to a senior and experienced person, eg, the MLRO for a risk-based decision which may vary from standard procedures.

4.14 To develop the approach it is necessary to review the business and consider what money laundering risks might attach to each service type, client type etc. One way to consider this in relation to the defined services is outlined below, but there are other approaches that may be equally or more valid depending on the type of business.

4.15 Businesses should consider first the type of risk presented:

- is the risk that the business might be used to launder money or provide the means to launder money? Examples might include handling client money, implementing company and trust structures, handling insolvent estates where assets are tainted by crime etc.
- is the risk that the client or its counterparties might be involved in money laundering? Examples might include clients who are PEPs (see section 5.27), or who are high profile and attract controversy or adverse comment in the public domain, or who are involved in higher risk sectors and jurisdictions (eg, those where corruption is known to be a higher risk), or who are known to be potentially involved in illegal activities, such as tax evaders seeking advice to resolve their affairs, and certain forensic work connected with fraud or other crime etc.

- 4.16 Consideration of these risk types should enable the business to draw up a simple matrix of characteristics of the client or service which are considered to present a higher than normal risk, and those which present a normal risk. Some may, by long acquaintance and detailed knowledge, or by their status (eg, listed, regulated and government entities as defined for the purpose of simplified due diligence in the 2007 Regulations) be considered to present a lower than normal risk.
- 4.17 This matrix can then be incorporated into client acceptance procedures, and as step 1 of the customer due diligence process, allows a money laundering risk level to be assigned to ensure appropriate, but not excessive, customer due diligence work is carried out.
- 4.18 It is important for the approach adopted to incorporate a provision for raising the risk rating from low or normal to high if any information comes to light in conducting the customer due diligence that causes concern or suspicion.
- 4.19 In all cases, even where clients qualify for simplified due diligence under the terms of the 2007 Regulations, or where they are considered low risk for other reasons, to assist in effective ongoing monitoring businesses should gather knowledge about the client to allow understanding of:
- who the client is
 - where required, who owns it (including ultimate beneficial owners – see section 5.6)
 - who controls it
 - the purpose and intended nature of the business relationship
 - the nature of the client
 - the client's source of funds
 - the client's business and economic purpose.
- 4.20 The information specified in the bullet points above are referred to in the remainder of this Guidance as 'know your client' or 'KYC' information which is one step in the customer due diligence process. However, businesses may avail themselves of the opportunity to conduct verification of identity on a simplified basis both under the terms of the 2007 Regulations, where applicable, and otherwise where the accumulated knowledge of the client is considered sufficient to prove its identity on a risk-sensitive basis without collecting additional documents as might be required for a new client considered to present a normal risk (provided in both cases that any relevant requirements of the 2007 Regulations, for example in relation to the identification of beneficial owners, are met).
- 4.21 Businesses need to set out clear requirements for collecting KYC information about the client and for conducting verification of identity, to a depth suitable to the assessment of risk. Set out in this Guidance are some high level guidelines as to how businesses might approach this. More detailed Guidance is contained in the JMLSG Guidance notes, Chapters 4 and 5.

SECTION 5 – CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE

KEY POINTS

- Effective 'customer due diligence' measures are an essential part of any system designed to prevent money laundering and are a cornerstone requirement of the Money Laundering Regulations 2007 (2007 Regulations).
- Businesses should take a risk-based approach to allow effort to be concentrated on higher risk areas (also see section 4). Risks must be assessed before the appropriate level of customer due diligence can be applied.
- Customer due diligence measures need to be carried out:
 - * when establishing a business relationship,
 - * when carrying out an occasional transaction,
 - * where there is a suspicion of money laundering or terrorist financing; and
 - * where there are doubts concerning the veracity of previous identification information.
- Businesses are required to ensure customer due diligence procedures are applied to all clients, both new and existing. Customer due diligence must be applied to existing clients (ie those existing prior to the 2007 Regulations coming into force) at appropriate times on a risk-sensitive basis.
- Before entering a business relationship, businesses must:
 - * identify and verify the client's identity using documents or information from reliable and independent sources.
 - * identify the beneficial owner of the client (where there is one), including understanding the ownership and control structure of the client and verifying, according to risk, the identity of the beneficial owner(s).
 - * obtain information on the purpose and intended nature of the business relationship.
- Verification of identity may in certain circumstances be conducted during the establishment of a business relationship if this is necessary not to interrupt the normal course of business and there is little risk of money laundering or terrorist financing occurring, provided the verification is completed as soon as practicable after contact is first established.
- During a business relationship, businesses must monitor activity on an ongoing basis. This includes scrutiny of transactions, source of funds and other elements of knowledge collected in the customer due diligence process, to ensure the new information is consistent with other knowledge of the client and keeping the documentation concerning the client and the relationship updated.
- Businesses can use a variety of tools and methods to conduct customer due diligence; the onus is on them to satisfy themselves and to be able to demonstrate to their anti-money laundering supervisory authority the appropriateness of their approach.

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT?

- 5.1 Customer due diligence measures are a key part of the anti-money laundering requirements. They ensure that businesses know who their clients are, ensure that they do not accept clients unknowingly which are outside their normal risk tolerance, or whose business they will not understand with sufficient clarity to be able to form money laundering suspicions when appropriate. If a business does not understand its client's regular business pattern of activity it will be very difficult to identify any abnormal business patterns or activities. In addition businesses must be in a position to supply the client's identity to SOCA should that client become the subject of a SAR.
- 5.2 Many businesses will have other procedures for client acceptance, for example to ensure compliance with professional requirements for independence and to avoid conflicts of interest. The requirements of the 2007 Regulations may either be integrated with those procedures or addressed separately. In either case, initial customer due diligence information not only assists in acceptance decisions, but also enables the business to form well-grounded expectations of the client's behaviour which provides some assistance in detecting potentially suspicious behaviour during the business relationship.
- 5.3 The processes required for compliance with anti-money laundering initial customer due diligence requirements contribute vitally to the overall picture of potential clients and appropriate risk assessment of them. However, a lack of concern raised during customer due diligence does not automatically mean that the client and engagement will remain in their initial risk category. Continued alertness for changes in the nature or ownership of the client, its business model, or its susceptibility to money laundering – or actual evidence of the latter - must be maintained.

WHAT IS CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE?

- 5.4 The 2007 Regulations provide an outline of the required components of customer due diligence which businesses need to ensure are integrated into client acceptance processes and the continuing conduct of the business relationship. The required components are:
- identifying the client (ie, knowing who the client is) and verifying the identity of the client (ie, confirming that identity is valid by obtaining documents or other information from sources which are independent and reliable);
 - identifying the beneficial owner(s) (see section 5.6) of a client, if there is one, so that the identity of the individual(s) who is the ultimate owner or controller is known, the ownership and control structure is understood and also that their identities are verified, as required, on a risk-sensitive basis; and
 - information on the purpose and intended nature of the business relationship.
- 5.5 Whilst the 2007 Regulations do indicate some cases where either simplified due diligence may be employed or enhanced due diligence must be employed, they do not specify, comprehensively, how to apply a risk-based approach in conducting customer due diligence. Section 4 of this Guidance provides a high level outline of the key elements of a risk-based approach. If further detail is required it is recommended that reference is made to the JMLSG Guidance notes which cover the subject in depth and, as HM Treasury approved Guidance for the financial services industry, may be considered as a reliable additional source of information in supplement to this Guidance.

WHAT IS A BENEFICIAL OWNER?

5.6 The 2007 Regulations set out in some detail the meaning of 'beneficial owner' in terms of bodies corporate, partnerships, trusts and other legal entities/arrangements not falling into the three categories listed above as well as special provisions regarding estates of deceased persons and a catch all provision that, where not otherwise specified, defines the beneficial owner as the person who ultimately owns or controls the client or on whose behalf a transaction is being conducted. The provisions regarding beneficial ownership are set out in Regulation 6 and are summarised below:

- Bodies corporate –beneficial owner means any individual who, in respect of any body other than a company whose securities are listed on a regulated investment market, owns or controls, directly or indirectly including through bearer share holdings, more than 25% of the shares or voting rights in the body or who otherwise exercises control over the management of the body.
- Partnerships (other than limited liability partnerships established under the Limited Liability Partnerships Act 2000) - beneficial owner means any individual who ultimately is entitled to or controls (directly or indirectly) more than 25% of the capital or profits of the partnership or more than 25% of the voting rights in the partnership or who otherwise exercises control over the management of the partnership.
- Trusts - beneficial owner means any individual who is entitled to a specified interest in at least 25% of the capital of the trust property, or where a trust is not set up entirely for the benefit of persons with a specified interest, the class of persons in whose main interest the trust is set up or operates or any individual who has control (a trust controller) over the trust. Where a class of persons is identified, it is not a requirement for all members of that class to be separately identified.
- Other entities and arrangements (meaning an entity or arrangement which administers and distributes funds) – where the individuals who benefit from the entity or arrangement have been determined, beneficial owner means any individual who benefits from at least 25% of the property of the entity or arrangements. Where those benefiting have yet to be determined, beneficial owner means the class of persons in whose main interest the entity or arrangement is set up or operates or an individual who exercises control over at least 25% of the property of the entity or arrangement. Where a class of persons is the beneficial owner, it is not a requirement for all members of that class to be separately identified. Note that where an individual is the beneficial owner of a body corporate which benefits from, or exercises control over, the property of an entity or arrangement, the individual is to be regarded as having that benefit or control and so is classed as the beneficial owner.
- Estates of deceased persons – the beneficial owner is considered to be the executor or administrator of the estate (full detail is shown in Regulation 6(8)).

5.7 The focus on identifying and, where appropriate, verifying the identity of beneficial owners is not only an important element of the required customer due diligence information, but is also an important factor in an effective risk-based approach to client acceptance. Businesses will need to be diligent in their enquiries in this field, taking into account that information may sometimes not be readily available from public record sources. This will necessitate a flexible approach to information gathering which will often involve direct enquiry of clients and their other advisers and professional service providers as well as undertaking public record searches in the UK and overseas.

APPLICATION AND TIMING OF CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE MEASURES (WHEN)

- 5.8 Identification and verification of identity procedures (together termed as “ID procedures”) should normally be completed before entering into a business relationship. This applies also to occasional transactions. ID procedures are also required at other times, for example, when there is a suspicion of money laundering or terrorist financing or where there are doubts about the sufficiency of identification information already held. If it is concluded the information held is insufficient, the business should remedy this as soon as is practicable. Should a suspicion be developed about the client, businesses will need to consider whether they are satisfied that the information already held is sufficient and up to date or whether any additional or updated information is required in respect of the client(s) in question in order that the information required by Regulation 5 (customer due diligence) is met. In particular, in any case where suspicion is developed, simplified due diligence may no longer be applied. This means if simplified due diligence had been applied, additional information will need to be collected in accordance with businesses’ risk-based procedures. Businesses must bear in mind in conducting this customer due diligence work the need to avoid disclosing that a money laundering report has been made, or that an investigation is underway, or may be commenced (see section 2.17-2.21 Tipping Off).
- 5.9 The 2007 Regulations allow for completion of ID procedures ‘during the establishment of a business relationship’ rather than before if the measures are completed as soon as practicable after the initial contact but only when such a process is necessary not to interrupt the normal conduct of business and there is little risk of money laundering or terrorist financing occurring. Guidance on how this might reasonably be applied in the case of provision of the defined services is provided below, although this is not intended to be prescriptive, or exclusive. Businesses should not complete any assignment for a client (eg, including transfer of client monies or delivery of work product) before customer due diligence has been carried out in full in accordance with the businesses’ procedures.
- 5.10 If procedures are not completed before entering a business relationship, businesses and their clients may suffer considerable cost and inconvenience in having to terminate a relationship if ID procedures either cannot be completed, or where the results are unsatisfactory.
- 5.11 Customer due diligence should also be completed before undertaking occasional services for the client that do not form part of an ongoing business relationship. Businesses must understand why the client requires the service, the identities of other parties that might be involved, and any potential for money laundering that may arise.

When delay may be acceptable

- 5.12 In forming new business relationships, there are some cases where delay may be acceptable, such as in urgent insolvency appointments, and urgent appointments that involve ascertaining the legal position of a client or defending the client in legal proceedings.

- 5.13 In such cases, businesses should still gather enough information to allow them to at least form a basic assessment of the identity of the client and money laundering risk and to complete other acceptance formalities such as considering the potential for conflicts of interest.
- 5.14 In other cases, where the majority of information required has been collected before entering a business relationship, short time extensions to complete collection of remaining information may be acceptable, provided this is caused only by administrative or logistical issues, and not by any reluctance of the client to provide the information and is necessary not to interrupt the normal course of business. Such extensions should be exceptional, rather than the norm. It is recommended that such extensions of time are considered and agreed by a member of senior management or the MLRO to ensure the reasons for the extension are valid and do not give rise to concern over the risk category of the client or the potential for money laundering suspicion.
- 5.15 If evidence is delayed (rather than refused), businesses should consider;
- the credibility of the client's explanation,
 - the length of delay,
 - whether the delay is in itself reasonable grounds for suspicion of money laundering requiring a report to SOCA and/or a factor indicating against acceptance of the client and engagement, and
 - documenting the reasons for delay and steps taken.

Non-compliance through client refusal

- 5.16 If a prospective client refuses to provide evidence of identity or other information properly requested as part of customer due diligence, the business relationship or occasional transaction must not proceed any further and any existing relationship with the client must be terminated (but see sections 5.56 – 5.59 on insolvency cases). Consideration must be given as to whether a report needs to be made to SOCA under POCA or TA 2000.
- 5.17 Where the appointment is of either a lawyer or relevant professional advisor in the course of ascertaining the legal position for the client, or performing the task of defending or representing the client in or concerning legal proceedings (including advice on instigating or avoiding proceedings) the requirement to cease acting and consider reporting to SOCA does not apply although customer due diligence information will still need to be collected within the time constraints in Regulation 9. Businesses are advised to consider the position very carefully before applying this exception to ensure that the type of work and their professional status fall within the definitions set out in Regulations 11(2) and (3).

Continuing customer due diligence

- 5.18 In addition to considerations before entering a business relationship, customer due diligence must be exercised on an ongoing basis during the relationship, as part of regular monitoring of money laundering risks or occasioned by the client undergoing significant changes. Businesses may wish to consider reviewing customer due diligence and other client information on a periodic basis, as well as in response to perceived risks.

- 5.19 Changes such as the appointment of new senior managers or shareholders and/ or controlling parties, changes in the client's strategy or changes of business profile should prompt businesses to re-apply customer due diligence procedures. These may differ from those adopted for a new client, and although there may be a change in focus the objective remains the same: to have a sound understanding of the client's identity and activities in order to assess risks of money laundering and to have accurate underlying records.

THE RISK BASED APPROACH TO CLIENT DUE DILIGENCE

- 5.20 Regulation 7(3) requires customer due diligence measures to be carried out on a risk-sensitive basis. This means that businesses need to consider how their risk assessment and management procedures (see section 3 above) flow through into their client acceptance and ID procedures, to give sufficient information and evidence, in the way most appropriate to the business concerned.
- 5.21 In addition, there are certain circumstances where the 2007 Regulations themselves lay down categories where simplified due diligence or enhanced due diligence is appropriate, according to national and international assessments of the risk of money laundering.

Simplified due diligence

- 5.22 ‘Simplified due diligence’ is a phrase used in the 2007 Regulations (Regulation 13) which means that a business is not required to apply the customer due diligence measures laid out in Regulation 7, as set out in section 5.20 above, where the business has reasonable grounds for believing that a client falls into the relevant categories. Businesses who may be permitted to apply the simplified due diligence exemptions but who perceive other than a low risk of money laundering in a specific case, should consider applying their standard or enhanced due diligence processes. In any case where a client or potential client has been subject to simplified due diligence and a suspicion or money laundering or terrorist financing arises in relation to that client, the simplified due diligence provisions must no longer be applied and the customer due diligence requirements of Regulation 7 must be applied, subject to any tipping off issues.
- 5.23 The main categories of relevance to those providing defined services are:
- credit or financial institutions subject to the provisions of the money laundering directive or equivalent overseas requirements,
 - companies listed on a regulated EEA market or equivalent overseas requirements subject to specified disclosure obligations,
 - UK public authorities and certain public authorities in the EU and EEA (see Schedule 2 paragraph 2).

Simplified due diligence is also available for some categories of products and transactions which may be provided by financial institutions.

- 5.24 Businesses should set out clearly in their internal procedures what is considered to constitute reasonable grounds for a belief that a client can be made subject to simplified due diligence. Evidence should be obtained either as to the regulated status of the credit or financial institution (such as a print out from the regulator’s official web-site or listing), or the listed status of the company (such as a print out from the exchange’s official web-site or listing, or details of the listing obtained from a trusted, independent commercial provider of company information). With regard to public authorities, recourse to official government web-sites is recommended. In each case, where the body is not subject to UK, EC or EEA law, justification will also need to be recorded as to how the provisions and other conditions regarding specified disclosure obligations in respect of listed companies, and the check and balance procedures and other conditions in respect of public authorities outside the UK, have been met. Recourse to information provided from time to time by the JLMSG is recommended [ref to JLMSG source]. Where simplified due diligence applies, businesses are not required to apply standard customer due diligence measures. However, businesses must still carry out ongoing monitoring (see section 5.46) and appropriate KYC information should therefore still be obtained (see section 4.19).

Enhanced due diligence

- 5.25 A risk-based approach to customer due diligence will identify situations which by their nature can present a higher risk of money laundering or terrorist financing. Regulation 14 sets out a general provision that enhanced due diligence must be applied in such situations and means that the business must obtain additional customer due diligence information about the client.
- 5.26 The 2007 Regulations also specify that enhanced due diligence must be applied in a number of situations, of which two are relevant to providers of defined services and are outlined below:
- if a client has not been physically present for identification purposes, and if so, one or more additional measures must be taken to enhance due diligence, for example by, inter alia, either gathering additional documents, data or information, or taking additional steps to verify documents or obtain a confirmatory certificate from a credit or financial institution subject to the money laundering directive; and
 - if a business relationship or occasional transaction is to be undertaken with a politically exposed person (PEP) in which case the business must provide for senior management approval for the relationship to be established, must take adequate measures to establish the source of wealth and funds which are involved and must conduct enhanced monitoring of any relationship entered into.

Politically exposed persons (PEPs)

- 5.27 The 2007 Regulations define a PEP as a person ‘...who is or has, at any time in the preceding year been entrusted with a prominent public function by a state other than the United Kingdom, a community institution or an international body’ or a family member or known close associate of such a person. Details of what are considered to be prominent public functions are shown in Schedule 2, paragraph 4(1)(a). For risk management and reputational risk reasons, businesses may wish to treat as PEPs individuals who held such positions more than a year ago. As regards establishing whether someone is considered to be a family member or known close associate, regard need only be had to information in the public domain or in the possession of the business. ‘International body’ is not defined, and due consideration should be given to the type, reputation and constitution of the body before excluding it or its representatives from enhanced due diligence. However, bodies such as the United Nations, NATO and FATF may reasonably be included within the definition of an international body for this purpose.
- 5.28 Under the 2007 Regulations, clients who are PEPs must always be subject to the enhanced due diligence measures referred to in section 5.26 above.

- 5.29 Businesses are required to have risk sensitive measures in place to recognise PEPs. This can be a simple check conducted by enquiring of the client and perhaps using an internet search engine. Businesses that are likely to regularly undertake services for PEPs may need to subscribe to a specialist database. To the extent possible, businesses should be aware of any news during a business relationship that could change a client's status to PEP.

Prohibited relationships

- 5.30 The 2007 Regulations set out circumstances which constitute prohibited relationships. In Regulation 16, correspondent banking relationships with shell banks, or a bank known to permit use of its accounts by a shell bank are prohibited. In addition, set up of anonymous accounts in the UK is prohibited, and customer due diligence must be applied to any existing accounts continuing in existence after 15 December 2007 before such an account is used.
- 5.31 All businesses must pay special attention to services or, where relevant, products or transactions that might allow anonymity and take measures to prevent their use in money laundering or terrorist activity. Businesses must include any such product or transaction within those requiring enhanced due diligence.
- 5.32 In addition, businesses must comply with any prohibition issued by HM Treasury in respect of any person, or State to which the Financial Action Task Force has decided to apply counter-measures (see also section 5.44). Directions may be given not to enter into business relationships, carry out occasional transactions or proceed with any such arrangements already in progress. The Government also issues advisory notices, against countries with material deficiencies in their anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing (AML/CTF) regimes, based on the FATF Non-Cooperative Countries or Territories (NCCTs) list (consisting of countries with extremely ineffective AML/CTF legislation and systems which prevent them from adequately cooperating internationally in combating money laundering and terrorist financing) and other FATF concerns. An advisory notice requires that businesses and individuals in the UK should exercise caution when entering into business relationships in such countries. Advisory notices are available from the HM Treasury website under "press notices". Businesses may subscribe to receive press notices on the HM Treasury website.

Reliance on third parties

- 5.33 Businesses may rely on third parties, subject to the third parties' consent, to complete all or part of customer due diligence as set out below but they should be cautious in relying on third parties as they will remain liable for any failure to comply notwithstanding their reliance on a third party (See Regulation 17). Businesses should consider requiring copies of relevant information and documentation from the third parties, in order that they may satisfy themselves the information is sufficient.
- 5.34 Reliance may be made on persons who are:
- regulated credit or financial institutions (excluding money service businesses);
 - professional lawyers, auditors, external accountants, insolvency practitioners or tax advisers;

'professionals' in the second of these categories must be regulated by one of the anti-money laundering authorities listed in Part 1 of Schedule 3 to the 2007 Regulations, or be subject to equivalent regulation in an EEA or non-EEA state including mandatory professional registration recognised by law and supervision for compliance with requirements equivalent to the money laundering directive. Businesses may outsource their customer due diligence measures but remain liable for any failure in the customer due diligence.

- 5.35 Information on equivalence is very limited at present, but further information should [shortly be published by HM Treasury following an EU study].
- 5.36 Before reliance may be placed on one of those specified above, the other individual or business must agree to reliance being placed. If consent is obtained, the individual or business consenting to the reliance must take great care to ensure they have adequate systems in place to keep proper records and to respond to any request for these.
- 5.37 An individual or business consenting to be relied upon must, if requested, make available to the person relying as soon as is reasonably practicable:
- any information obtained about the client (and any beneficial owner) when applying customer due diligence measures; and/or
 - copies of any identification and verification data and other documents on the identity of the client (and any beneficial owner) obtained when applying customer due diligence measures.
- 5.38 Before placing reliance, an individual or business seeking to rely must take steps to ensure the person being relied upon will provide the required information.
- 5.39 Any individual or business consenting to be relied upon must ensure the records of customer due diligence which become the subject of reliance are retained for 5 years from the date on which reliance commences.
- 5.40 Failure by a person who has been relied upon to comply with the requirements in relation to responding to requests for information, relying upon a person without having ensured they will provide the information required on request, or failing to keep the records required after reliance has been allowed are all criminal offences as set out in Regulation 45.

Where reliance is placed on a third party, businesses are not required to apply standard customer due diligence measures. However, businesses must still carry out ongoing monitoring (see section 5.46) and appropriate KYC information should therefore still be obtained (see section 4.19).

- 5.41 Whilst reliance may be a useful and efficient feature of a customer due diligence system between parties who are able to build a relationship of trust, it should not be entered into lightly. Individuals and businesses need to consider carefully whether they wish to be relied upon and before so consenting ensure:
- their client (and any other third party whose information would be disclosed) has no objection to their information being passed to the person seeking reliance; and
 - that they have in place the necessary record-keeping systems.

CONDUCTING CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE

‘Know your client’ or ‘KYC’

- 5.42 The resources used to undertake effective customer due diligence are not prescribed. Various sources may be used to enhance a business' knowledge of their client, including direct discussion with the client, information (eg, websites, brochures, reports etc) prepared by the client and review of public domain information.
- 5.43 Businesses need to consider whether there are any particular steps they wish to specify for use in higher risk cases to increase the depth of customer due diligence, such as seeking out wider information from extensive internet and press searches concerning the potential client, its key counterparties, its sector and jurisdiction, or possibly using subscription databases which provide a quick way of accessing public domain information and in many cases provide links to persons or companies known to be associated with the potential client (see sections 5.54 to 5.55 on electronic identification).
- 5.44 Businesses might, as appropriate to their risk assessment, wish to check the names of clients against lists of persons subject to asset-freezing restrictions, including under financial sanctions and terrorism financial restrictions. HM Treasury maintains a consolidated list of persons designated as being subject to financial restrictions in force in the UK but recourse may be had to further lists such as those issued by the UN and the US Treasury Office of Foreign Assets Control or OFAC). Some electronic resources also include an automated check against this information as part of the product.

Specific customer due diligence prompts

- 5.45 It may be helpful for a list of questions or prompts to be incorporated into customer due diligence procedures. Examples are given at the end of this section (section 5A) which should be amended to suit the particular business' client base and services.

Ongoing monitoring

- 5.46 Ongoing monitoring of the business relationship is required. This comprises scrutiny of activity during the relationship, including enquiry into source of funds if needed, to ensure all is consistent with expected behaviour based on accumulated customer due diligence information. In addition, it is required that the documentation concerning the relationship (including customer due diligence) is kept updated as laid out in Regulation 8, 2007 Regulations. The need to update customer due diligence information should be considered at appropriate times, following a risk based approach, according to the firm's knowledge of the client and changes in its circumstances or the nature of services provided by the firm. A firm also may wish to consider this need, on a more routine basis, as appropriate opportunities arise. Examples of such opportunities are:
- at the start of new engagements and when planning for recurring engagements;
 - when a previously stalled engagement restarts;
 - whenever there is a change of control and/or ownership of the client;
 - when there is a material change in the level, type or conduct of business; and
 - where any cause for concern, or suspicion, has arisen (in such cases, care must be taken to avoid making any disclosure which could constitute tipping off).

Risk-based verification

- 5.47 Application of a risk-based approach is of considerable importance in verification, both to ensure a good depth of knowledge in higher risk cases, but also to avoid superfluous effort in lower or normal risk cases. Very extensive information is contained in the JMLSG Guidance notes. Reference to this is recommended, particularly for overseas clients, or those clients who have a legal form other than that of a UK private or public company, a UK partnership or LLP, or a UK government body.

- 5.48 With the more frequently encountered client types, ie individuals, UK private or public companies, UK partnerships or LLPs, a UK regulated business, or a UK government body, outline Guidance on a risk based approach to verification of identity is set out at the end of this section (section 5B).

Documentary evidence used in the verification of identity (How)

- 5.49 The purpose of verification of identity is to confirm and prove the information collected in so far as it relates to the identity of the client. Recourse to documents from independent sources is important. The amount of reliance that can be placed upon, and thus the strength of, particular forms of evidence varies.
- 5.50 The following are illustrative of a different of strength of various forms of documentary evidence starting with the highest:
- documents issued by a government department or agency or a Court (including documents filed at Companies House or overseas equivalent)
 - documents issued by other public sector bodies or local authorities
 - documents issued by businesses regulated by the Financial Services Authority or overseas equivalent
 - documents issued by professionals regulated for anti-money laundering purposes by the bodies listed in Schedule 3 of the 2007 Regulations or overseas equivalents
 - documents issued by other bodies.
5. 51 In the case of individuals, documents from highly rated sources that contain photo identification as well as written details are a particularly strong source of verification of identity.

Certification and annotation

Certification

- 5.52 Businesses may wish to consider whether copies of original documents and copies of certified copies of original documents should be certified as true copies to demonstrate their provenance. Businesses may wish to create standard stamps or labels to apply to documents, which can then simply be filled in with name, signature and date. Businesses should have regard to the standing of the person certifying and may wish to consider specifying from whom certification may be accepted, for instance, businesses may decide to restrict acceptance to those documents certified by a person in the permitted categories for reliance (Regulation 17 of the 2007 Regulations) which are broadly a credit or financial institution authorised by the FSA, a professionally qualified auditor, external accountant, insolvency practitioner or tax adviser, or independent legal professional, or their equivalent in EU countries and other countries which have equivalent law and provided in all cases that the person is subject to supervision as to his compliance with those requirements.

Annotation

- 5.53 This should be used when the document is as good as an original but is not the original itself. This particularly applies to printouts from the Internet, such as downloads from Companies House, regulator, stock exchange or government websites, or similar trustworthy business information sources. Each document so obtained should bear written evidence showing who printed it, when, from where and should be signed by the relevant person.

Electronic identification

- 5.54 There are now a number of subscription services that give access to databases of information on identity. Many of these services can be accessed on-line and are often used by businesses to replace or supplement paper verification checks. Subject to 5.55, this means businesses may use on-line verification as a substitute for paper verification checks for clients considered normal risk, supplemented by additional paper verification checks for higher risk clients, or vice versa.
- 5.55 Before using electronic databases, however, businesses should question whether the information supplied is sufficiently reliable, comprehensive and accurate. The following points should be considered before deciding to use an electronic source (either as part of a wider process or, where appropriate, on its own)³:
- Does the system draw on multiple sources? A single source, eg, the Electoral Roll, is usually not sufficient. A system which uses both negative and positive data sources is generally more robust than one that does not.⁴
 - Are the sources checked across a period of time? Systems that do not regularly update their data are generally prone to more inaccuracies than those that do.
 - Are there control mechanisms to ensure the quality and reliability of data? Systems should have built-in checks that ensure the integrity of data and should ideally be transparent enough to show the results of these checks and their bearing on the integrity of data.
 - Is the information accessible? Systems need to allow a business either to download and store the results of searches in appropriate electronic form, or to print off a hardcopy record containing all necessary details as to name of provider, source, date etc.

Insolvency cases

- 5.56 In the context of insolvency work, the person or entity entering into the business relationship is considered to be the insolvent. Insolvency practitioners are also referred to the Guidance provided by R3.⁵
- 5.57 An Insolvency practitioner should obtain verification of the identity of the person or entity over which he is appointed. Acceptable evidence of verification may include a court order, a court endorsed appointment, or an appointment made by a debenture

³ The JMLSG Guidance (Section 2, paragraphs 5.3.11 – 5.3.18) also covers indicators of good electronic identification resources.

holder or creditors meeting supported by a company search or similar. It is not always possible or necessary to obtain identification evidence direct from individuals or individual shareholders or directors in an appointment in respect of a company as their co-operation may not be forthcoming.

- 5.58 It is important for an officeholder to be sure about the identity of the person or entity over which he is taking appointment given the urgency of the situation and the necessity not to delay when this might risk dissipation of assets and erosion of value. However, completion of other KYC elements of customer due diligence may not be possible prior to appointment and should be completed as soon as practicable after appointment (if possible, usually within 5 working days).
- 5.59 Insolvency practitioners post appointment have a very different relationship with the insolvent client than that with a normal audit or advisory client and have access to a very wide range of information which alters the need for traditional pre-appointment KYC. However, particular focus is needed before, and immediately after, appointment on considering the way the business has been operated and assessing the risk of assets being tainted by crime in which case it may well be necessary, but not as a matter of routine in every case, to apply to SOCA for consent to perform the normal range of duties of collection, realisation and distribution of assets (see section 8).

iii. Government or similar bodies

Obtain and annotate evidence to confirm the body’s:

- main place of operation; and
- the government or supra-national agency controlling it (government and supra-national agency web-sites are a useful source of information)

SECTION 6 - REPORTING

KEY POINTS

- Suspicious activity reports submitted by the regulated sector are an important source of information used by SOCA in meeting its harm reduction agenda, and by law enforcement more generally.
- Businesses are required to have procedures which provide for the nomination of a person (in this Guidance the MLRO) to receive disclosures (internal reports) under Part 7 of POCA and which require that everyone in the business complies with Part 7 of POCA in terms of reporting knowledge, suspicion or reasonable grounds for knowledge or suspicion of money laundering.
- Failure to report in accordance with Part 7 of POCA where the relevant information or other matter has been obtained through the course of work in the regulated sector is a criminal offence which can be committed by any individual (s330, POCA), or by the MLRO (s331, POCA). There is a similar offence for MLRO's outside the regulated sector in s332, POCA.
- An individual other than the MLRO fulfils his reporting obligations by making an internal report to his MLRO.
- The MLRO is responsible for assessing internal reports, making further inquiries if need be (either within the business or using public domain information), and, if appropriate, filing SARs with SOCA.
- Where a relevant professional advisor forms knowledge or suspicion or reasonable grounds for such in 'privileged circumstances' no report should be made to SOCA unless this 'privilege reporting exemption' is overridden by the crime/ fraud exception ie where the information or other matter is communicated to the relevant professional advisor with the intent of furthering a criminal purpose (Section 7.42 to 7.46).
- When reports are properly made they are 'protected' under s337, POCA in that nothing in them shall be taken to breach any restriction on the disclosure of information, however imposed.
- A person who considers he may have engaged or is about to engage in money laundering, should make an 'authorised' disclosure (s338, POCA). Such a disclosure, provided it is made (and SOCA's consent to the act is obtained) before the act is carried out, or is made as soon as possible on the initiative of that person after the act is done and with good reason being shown for the delay, may provide a defence against charges of money laundering. When properly made such reports shall not be taken to breach any restriction on the disclosure of information, however imposed.
- Consent may be sought from SOCA under s335, POCA (and confirmed to the business by the MLRO under s336 POCA) to carry out activity that would otherwise be money laundering under ss327-329 POCA. If granted, the consent provides complete protection against charges of money laundering but only in respect of the activity covered by the consent.
- TA 2000 provides for broadly equivalent provisions regarding the reporting of knowledge, suspicion or reasonable grounds for such of terrorist financing. The definition of 'terrorist property' is set out in s14, TA 2000 and the terrorist offences and provisions regarding reporting, consent and tipping off are set out in ss15-21A.

WHAT MUST BE REPORTED?

- 6.1 Under ss330-332, POCA, failing to report knowledge or suspicion, or reasonable grounds for such, of money laundering is a criminal offence (see section 2 of this Guidance, which outlines the offences and details of exemptions). The following must be reported, as soon as practicable. These are collectively known as 'the required disclosure':
- the identity of the suspect (if known);
 - information or other matter on which the knowledge or suspicion of money laundering (or reasonable grounds for such) is based; and
 - the whereabouts of the laundered property (if known)
- 6.2 Care is needed to ensure that any information held concerning identity (such as date of birth, passport number, address, registration numbers for companies and so on) is included within the report as well as details of the laundered property and its whereabouts, where known, and reasons for knowledge or suspicion.
- 6.3 Even if the name of a suspect is not known, any information available which may assist in identifying the suspect or the whereabouts of any of the laundered property must be included in the report, under the provisions of s330 (3A), POCA. For example, even if the business does not have the name of the suspect, if the business is aware the client holds the detail the report needs to reflect this as information which may assist in identifying the suspect.
- 6.4 In cases where the suspect is not known, another subject should be included in the report, whether this is the victim or another subject associated with the activity. The fact that in these cases the subject of the report is not a suspect should be made clear in the report.
- 6.5 The disclosure requirement relates to any information coming to a person in the course of business in the regulated sector, and not just information relating to clients and their affairs. This means that reports made may be required on the basis of information not only about clients, but about potential clients, associates and counterparties of clients, acquisition targets and even employees of businesses in the regulated sector.

TYPES OF REPORT

- 6.6 Reports made in accordance with the provisions of POCA are made under either s337 (protected disclosures) or s338 (authorised disclosures).

The Protected Disclosure

- 6.7 A protected disclosure is any report made by a person providing the required disclosure, based on information or other matter coming to their attention in the course of their trade, profession, business or employment, where this information has led to knowledge or suspicion (or reasonable grounds for such) that another person is engaged in money laundering.
- 6.8 A protected disclosure may be made by any person forming a money laundering suspicion, at work or carrying out professional activities, whether or not acting within the regulated sector. This means that any individual or business, or other organisation (such as a charity) meeting these conditions may make a voluntary report to SOCA in the public interest and benefit from the protections contained in s337, POCA against allegations of breach of confidentiality. In the regulated sector, such reports are compulsory (save where an exemption such as the privilege reporting exemption applies).

The Authorised Disclosure

6.9 An authorised disclosure is a report made by a person who makes the disclosure:

- before he has carried out a prohibited act (ie, done something which would constitute a money laundering offence under ss327-329, POCA); or
- whilst he is doing the prohibited act, or after he has done such an act provided that when he started to do the act he didn't realise that it was money laundering (ie, did not realise that criminal property was involved) and made the report on his own initiative as soon as he knew or suspected criminal property was involved; or
- after he has done the prohibited act, provided that there was good reason for not reporting before he committed the act, and he made the report on his own initiative as soon as it was practicable to make it. There is no guidance in POCA as to what might constitute 'good reason', but this is likely to be applied narrowly.

Confidentiality protections

6.10 Any report properly made under the provisions of ss337 and 338, POCA cannot be taken to breach any restriction on disclosure of information, however this is imposed. This means considerations of client or other duties of confidentiality must not impede reporting, unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 7 below) where different considerations apply. Such protection does not exist for reports which are made founded only on speculation or made defensively, founded on generalities or 'just in case'.

Non-POCA reporting

6.11 This Guidance deals only with obligations under the UK anti-money laundering regime – businesses and individuals should have regard to other obligations they may have, such as reporting responsibilities under the Statements of Auditing Standards, statutory regulatory returns, and reports of misconduct of fellow members of professional bodies. In all cases, the risk of tipping off must be considered and avoided. Further Guidance on acting for clients who are the subject of SARs is given in section 9.

RECOGNISING MONEY LAUNDERING

The key elements

6.12 The anti-money laundering requirements only relate to criminal matters, that is those which attract criminal penalties. Other acts may be unlawful, but not criminal. This distinction is particularly important in areas of work where an array of penalties on both civil and criminal levels exist. An example of this is in relation to infringement of the requirements of the Companies Act where there is a mixture of issues attracting civil penalties and those attracting criminal penalties.

6.13 In most cases of suspicion, the reporter will have in mind a particular type of underlying or predicate criminal conduct. However, on occasion a transaction or activity may so obviously lack any normal economic rationale or business purpose as to lead to a suspicion that it may be linked to money laundering in the absence of any other credible explanation. Individuals should not hesitate to exercise professional scepticism and judgement and should report such matters if appropriate.

- 6.14 For a matter to be money laundering, there must not only be criminal conduct, but also proceeds or criminal property. These terms are described below.

Criminal conduct

- 6.15 Criminal conduct is that which constitutes an offence in any part of the UK or would do if it was committed in the UK. However, businesses and individuals should note that under the provisions of the overseas conduct exception (s330(7)(A) POCA) there are limited exceptions to the requirement to report conduct occurring overseas – see sections 2.4 and 2.5.
- 6.16 Since UK law defines money laundering so widely, any criminal conduct which has resulted in any form of criminal property will also constitute money laundering. It is not expected that individuals will become expert in the very wide range of underlying or predicate criminal offences which lead to money laundering but they will be expected to recognise those that fall within the professional competence of their role but should use professional scepticism, judgement and independence as appropriate to identify offences.
- 6.17 If a person knowingly engages in criminal activity but does not successfully benefit from it, he may have committed some other offence (often fraud) but not money laundering. If an activity does not result in criminal property it cannot constitute a money laundering offence. Consequently, there is no obligation to file a money laundering report. However, businesses and individuals may wish to report the matter to the Police, or may have other reporting duties (such as those referred to in section 6.11 above).

Criminal property

- 6.18 Criminal property is the benefit derived from a person's criminal activity. Note that criminal property (or 'proceeds') can take any form. For example, cost savings from ignoring mandatory health and safety regulations (amounting to a criminal offence) savings as a result of tax evasion, and other less obvious financial benefits can also constitute criminal property. Where criminal property is used to acquire further assets these further assets themselves become criminal property. It is important to note that there is no de minimis level and thus criminal property is not identified by its value.
- 6.19 POCA defines criminal property in s340(3)(b), POCA as 'property is criminal property if it constitutes a person's benefit from criminal conduct and the alleged offender knows or suspects, that it constitutes or represents such a benefit'

Intent

- 6.20 Except for certain strict liability offences, criminal conduct requires an element of criminal intent. S 340(3)(b) of POCA means that an offender must know or suspect that property is criminal. Conduct which is an innocent error or mistake may be criminal where it constitutes a strict liability offence but will not also be money laundering.
- 6.21 If an individual or business knows or believes that a client is acting in error, the individual may approach the client and explain the situation and legal risks to him.

However, once the criminality of the conduct is explained to the client, he must bring his conduct (including past conduct) promptly within the law to avoid a money laundering offence being committed. Where there is uncertainty about the legal issues, outside the competence of the individual, clients should be referred to an appropriate specialist or professional legal adviser.

- 6.22 Note that if there are reasonable grounds to suspect that a client knew or suspected that his/ its actions were criminal, a report must be made. Even if the client does not have the relevant intent, but businesses or individuals are aware that there is criminal property, consideration needs to be given to whether a report has to be made under s 338, POCA to avoid an offence under ss327-329, POCA (see also section 6.27 and section 8).

Determining whether and when to report

- 6.23 There can be no hard and fast rules on how to recognise money laundering. It is important for all individuals to be alert to this issue and to apply their professional judgement and experience.
- 6.24 Individuals need to consider whether activity or conduct observed in the course of business has the characteristics of money laundering and, therefore, warrants a report. Most businesses will include in their standard anti-money laundering systems and procedures arrangements to allow individuals to discuss whether the information they hold amounts to a reportable knowledge or suspicion, and individuals should take advantage of these arrangements where necessary.
- 6.25 Individuals must report promptly to the MLRO (or exceptionally direct to SOCA) once the requisite knowledge or suspicion has been formed, or reasonable grounds for such have come into existence. There are no external requirements for the format of an internal report and businesses may design their systems for internal reporting as they wish. Internal reports may be made orally or in writing, and may refer to client files or contain all the requisite information in a standard form, provided that all the information in the required disclosure and other information which the business requires under its procedures for the reporting of money laundering are reliably provided and recorded.
- 6.26 To decide whether or not a matter is suspicious individuals may need to make further enquiries (within the normal scope of the assignment or business relationship) of the client or their records. The anti-money laundering legislation does not prevent normal commercial enquiries being made to fulfil duties to clients, and such enquiries may also assist in understanding a matter to determine whether or not it is suspicious. However, investigations into suspected money laundering should not be conducted unless this is within the scope of the engagement, and information is limited to that to which the individual would normally be entitled in the course of business. Normal business activities should be maintained and such information or other matter which flows from this will form the proper basis of internal reports and SARs. To carry out additional investigations is unnecessary and could risk alerting a money launderer.
- 6.27 Individuals should be cautious and report to their MLRO if in doubt, but may wish to consider the following questions to assist their decision:

- Am I suspicious, or do I know, that activity I have seen is criminal and has caused someone to benefit from it in some way?
- Am I suspicious of an activity which, whilst I can't identify a specific predicate offence, is so unusual or lacking in normal commercial rationale that it causes suspicion that money is being laundered?
- If so, do I suspect a particular person or persons of having been involved in criminal activity (or do I know who undertook criminal activity), or does another person that I can name have details of this person(s) or information that might assist in identifying this person(s)?
- Do I know who might have received, or still be holding, the benefit of the criminal activity or where the criminal property might be located or have I got any information which might allow the property to be located?
- Do I think that the person(s) involved in the activity knew or suspected that the activity was criminal or do I think the activity arose from innocent error?
- Can I explain coherently what and who I am suspicious of, and why, either in terms of knowledge or suspicion that a predicate offence has been committed, or in terms of abnormal activities which may constitute money laundering?

Consideration must also be given to whether individuals or businesses have engaged, or intend to engage, in conduct which could constitute a money laundering offence under ss327-329, POCA (eg, transferring client money that comprises criminal property). If so, this must also be reported to the MLRO as a report may be required under s 338, POCA and consent requested.

HOW TO REPORT

Internal reports to the MLRO

- 6.28 The 2007 Regulations require businesses to maintain internal reporting procedures that allow any individual in the business to submit to the MLRO a report of knowledge or suspicion or reasonable grounds for such, of money laundering. Only by doing this can the individual fulfil his obligations under s330, POCA (or in exceptional circumstances, reporting direct to SOCA). Of course, sole practitioners who do not employ any staff will simply make their own SARs directly to SOCA.
- 6.29 Under s330, POCA, the internal report must reach the MLRO – a report to a line manager or other colleagues is not enough to comply with the legislation.⁶ An individual may discuss his suspicion with managers or other colleagues to assure himself of the reasonableness of his conclusions but, other than in group reporting circumstances, the responsibility for reporting to the MLRO remains with him. It cannot be transferred to anyone else, however junior or senior they are.
- 6.30 Where a group (more than one individual) arrives at knowledge or reasonable suspicion together by consolidating their thoughts, a single internal report may be submitted, in terms agreed by those forming the suspicion and in the names of them all. This may occur, for example, where an engagement team has a reason to be suspicious.

Reports to SOCA

- 6.31 The MLRO will be responsible for making decisions on whether the information contained in an internal report needs to be relayed to SOCA in the form of a SAR, and compiling and despatching the SAR to SOCA (section 7). The MLRO will also be responsible for determining whether consent is required to continue with the engagement or any aspect of it, and will usually be responsible for decisions on how business should be conducted pending receipt of consent (section 8).

⁶ Both the 2007 Regulations and POCA 2002 use the term 'nominated officer' for MLRO.

SECTION 7 – THE MLRO AND REPORTING TO SOCA

KEY POINTS

- The role of the MLRO carries significant responsibility and should be undertaken by a senior person within the business who has sufficient authority to take independent decisions, and who is properly equipped with sufficient knowledge, and resources, to undertake the role.
- The key role is that of receiving internal reports, and making SARs to SOCA as applicable, but MLROs may undertake other functions relating to the businesses' systems and controls in relation to its anti-money laundering activities.
- Businesses should make provision for delegates or deputies to cover any absence of the appointed MLRO and should ensure all relevant employees are aware of the reporting channels laid down by the business.
- It is for businesses to determine the format of internal reports.
- A relevant professional adviser who suspects or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting that another person is engaged in money laundering is exempted from making a money laundering report where his knowledge or suspicion comes to him in privileged circumstances (the privilege reporting exemption).

THE ROLE

7.1 The role of the Money Laundering Reporting Officer (MLRO) carries significant responsibility and should be undertaken by an appropriately experienced individual. Although there is no prescribed level of seniority, one of the principals of an accounting firm, or similar in other businesses, is likely to be suitable, or another senior and skilled person with sufficient authority to enable decisions to be taken independently. MLROs are required to:

- consider internal reports of money laundering;
- decide if there are sufficient grounds for suspicion to pass those reports on to SOCA in the form of a SAR, and, if so, to make that SAR; and
- act as the key liaison point with SOCA and law enforcement agencies including dealing with consent and disclosure issues.

MLROs may also take responsibility for:

- training within the business;
- advising on how to proceed with work once an internal report and/or SAR has been made in order to guard against risks of tipping off or prejudicing an investigation; and
- the design and implementation of internal anti-money laundering systems and procedures.

If this role is not undertaken by the MLRO, these responsibilities should be taken on by another sufficiently senior and skilled person within the business. This person should work closely with the MLRO.

- 7.2 The functions of an MLRO can be delegated, although this does not relieve that MLRO of his responsibility, and businesses should have contingency arrangements for discharging the duties of an MLRO during periods of absence or unavailability. It is recommended that businesses appoint an alternate or deputy MLRO for these situations and ensure that the reporting channels are well known to all relevant employees.
- 7.3 Like all individuals, MLROs can commit the money laundering offences as well as the related offences of failure to disclose, tipping off, and prejudicing an investigation.

ASSESSING INTERNAL REPORTS

- 7.4 When first approached by a colleague with an internal report, there are two matters for immediate consideration. Rapid consideration is needed by the MLRO as to whether an application for consent is required (see section 8). In addition, the MLRO should first establish by discussion and review whether or not the privilege reporting exemption may apply, as this exemption significantly affects not only whether a SAR must be made under the legislation, but also whether it may be made. The privilege reporting exemption is limited to relevant professional advisers, and will not be available other than to members of well established professional bodies such as those listed in Schedule 3 to the 2007 Regulations and who meet the requirements set out in s 330 (14), POCA. Further Guidance on the privilege reporting exemption is given in sections 7.26 to 7.46 below.
- 7.5 Once the MLRO receives an internal report, he must assess it and determine whether it meets the criteria laid down in s 331, POCA ie:
- does he know, suspect or have reasonable grounds to know or suspect that another person is engaged in money laundering; and
 - did the information or other matter giving rise to the knowledge or suspicion come to him in a disclosure made under s 330, POCA; and
 - does he know the name of the other person or the whereabouts of any laundered property from the s 330 disclosure; or
 - can he identify the other person or the whereabouts of any laundered property from information or other matter contained in the s 330 disclosure; or
 - does he believe, or is it reasonable for him to believe, that the information or other matter contained in the s 330 disclosure will or may assist in identifying the other person or the whereabouts of any laundered property.
- 7.6 In each case the MLRO should ensure the report contains all the relevant information known to the individual(s) making the report and records all necessary aspects as follows:
- who is making the report
 - the date of the report
 - who is suspected or information that may assist in ascertaining the identity of the suspect (which may simply be details of the victim and the fact that the victim knows the identity but this is not information to which the business is privy in the ordinary course of its work)
 - who is otherwise involved in or associated with the matter and in what way
 - what the facts are
 - what is suspected and why
 - information regarding the whereabouts of any criminal property or information that may assist in ascertaining it (which may simply be the details of the victim

- who has further information but this is not information to which the business is privy in the ordinary course of its work)
- what involvement does the business have with the issue in order that requirements for consent, the need for consideration of tipping off issues, basis of continuance of work and any other necessary guidance for engagement staff may be considered.
- 7.8 The MLRO may also wish to make reasonable enquiries of other individuals and systems within the business. Such enquiries may either have the effect of confirming the knowledge or suspicion, or reasonable grounds for such, or may provide additional material which enables the cause of suspicion to be eliminated at which point the matter may be closed without a SAR being issued.
- 7.9 In conducting his assessment, the MLRO may well wish to consider the criteria set out in section 6 [determining whether to report]. If the MLRO considers the information or other matter he has received in an internal report meets these criteria then a SAR to SOCA will be required unless either the privilege reporting exemption has been applied on the reporter seeking advice from the MLRO and not overridden by the crime/fraud exception or, on analysis of the internal report received, the MLRO determines that the overseas conduct exemption applies (sections 2.4 and 2.5).

The Reporting Record

- 7.10 It is vital for the control of legal risk that adequate records of internal reports are maintained, usually by the MLRO. These would normally be details of all internal reports made including details of the MLRO's handling of the matter, his requests for further information, assessments of the information received, decisions as to whether to conclude immediately or to wait for further developments or information, whether to make a SAR or not and on what grounds, any advice given to engagement teams as regards continuation of work and any consent requests made.
- 7.11 Details of internal reports submitted as SARs should also be retained. For efficiency, and ease of reference for the MLRO, it is recommended that some form of index of reports is kept and internal reference numbers given. The records may be simple, or sophisticated, depending on the size of the business and the volume of reporting, but all need to contain broadly the same information and be supported by appropriate working papers. These records are important as they may subsequently be required to justify and defend the actions of an individual or MLRO. There is no prescribed form specified in POCA or elsewhere for internal reports to an MLRO.

MAKING EXTERNAL REPORTS

- 7.12 Once an MLRO has concluded a report is required, it should be prepared and submitted promptly to SOCA.
- 7.13 The requirement set out in POCA as to timing of reports is that a report should be made 'as soon as is practicable' after the information required is received. In practical terms, the interval between receiving an internal report and making a SAR will vary quite widely. Some matters may be disposed of very rapidly where all the information required to make a SAR is received with the first contact, and where this occurs a quick turnaround should be achieved. It is particularly important to work rapidly in matters where consent is required, or where 'money laundering in action' is suspected, ie, another is engaged in current criminal activity which may provide law enforcement with opportunities to intervene. In other cases, where not all the required information is immediately to hand, or where there is material uncertainty as to whether the matter is reportable or not, the MLRO may reasonably choose to await further expected developments, and/or seek further information before making a reporting decision.

7.14 MLROs can use a variety of manners and methods of submission, to make reports such as:

- SAR on-line, using internet transfer
- Moneyweb, using extranet transfer
- Secure (encrypted email) using electronic file transfer by email
- Bulk reports in electronic form using CD etc for transfer
- Hard copy SOCA forms (obtainable on the internet or by post on request to SOCA) to be typed and submitted by post or fax

The manners most likely to be of relevance to those providing defined services are SAR on-line, Moneyweb and the hard copy forms, the other two manners and methods are normally only used by retail banks and others submitting very large quantities of reports. We recommend that individuals and businesses have regard to guidance on how to make reports published from time to time by SOCA. Details of SOCA's preferred reporting methods are available from their web site at www.soca.gov.uk

7.15 Each of the manners contain compulsory fields which require information, where known, to be provided in accordance with the required disclosure provisions. These fields relate to the identity of the reporter, the details of subjects (to the extent known but at least one must be named whether as victim or suspect and the identity information known provided in the correct specified fields), and in the free text box (variously called 'reason for disclosure' or 'reason for suspicion') the whereabouts of the laundered property, where known, and the description of the reason for suspicion or knowledge.

7.16 Please note that currently there are no prescribed forms which MLROs must use. An offence for failing to use the prescribed manner and form for making a SAR is contained in s339(1A), POCA but this section is not effective unless or until an order by the Secretary of State. We are not aware of any plans to prescribed manner and form in the immediate future.

7.17 In preparing SARs, MLROs should seek to present information in a way that is clear and succinct. In particular:

- the full name of the reporting business must be provided and the internal reference for the report should be provided in each case;
- identification information held by the business (name, address, date of birth, registration numbers etc) must be presented in the appropriate subject fields, and not simply incorporated into the 'reason for suspicion' text;
- where it assists in explaining the matter being reported, it may be appropriate to include a number of subjects in the report, providing such identification information as is known in the manner above for each of them;
- for each subject their role, as far as it is known, in the matter should be made clear and the options of flagging each subject as suspect/victim/unknown used as appropriate;
- where bank account/transaction details are available and relevant, these should be included in the appropriate fields;

- the activity observed should be explained clearly in the reasons for suspicion field, without using jargon or terms which might not be readily understood by non-accountants and, as far as known, giving details of when events occurred;
- features of the activity which are unusual or are considered to denote either a predicate offence to money laundering, or money laundering, should be highlighted as such;
- such information held as to the whereabouts of any laundered property should be given;
- the information given in the reasons for suspicion field should be succinct; and
- the report should be submitted without any supporting documents and accordingly should be able to stand alone to explain the suspicion through provision of the information comprising the required disclosure.

7.18 If the MLRO so wishes, he may make use of the SAR Glossary of Terms provided by SOCA and incorporate the relevant terms in his report.

7.19 An important role for the MLRO on receipt of an internal report and on making a SAR is to advise engagement teams on how to continue their work and interact with the client to balance professional responsibilities, risk to the business and responsibilities under POCA. This area of work is examined in section 9.

Guarding confidentiality

7.20 If clients or third parties become aware that an individual or business has made a SAR, this can have adverse effects on client relationships and may ultimately endanger the security of staff members. Maintaining the confidentiality of SARs is important to SOCA⁷. Access to SAR information is now provided to end-users in law enforcement and similar agencies by SOCA only on condition that undertakings are taken as to compliance with Home Office guidance on preserving the confidentiality of SARs. (Home Office Circular 53 / 2005 'Money Laundering: The Confidentiality And Sensitivity Of Suspicious Activity Reports (SARs) And The Identity Of Those Who Make Them').

7.21 SOCA has provided a reporting line for concerns over breach of confidentiality by end-users of reports and details may be found on <http://www.soca.gov.uk/financialIntel/sarBreachLine.html>.

7.22 Whilst it is reasonable for the regulated sector to expect SOCA to make strenuous efforts to protect the confidentiality of those who make SARs, reporters should also take such steps as are available to them to protect the confidentiality of individuals and businesses and the information reported.

7.23 In making reports, MLROs should disclose information relevant to the suspicion or knowledge of money laundering and information necessary to allow the reader to gain a proper understanding of the matters reported. It is recommended that reporters:

- refrain from including other confidential information where this is not required for compliance with obligations under POCA
- show the name of the business, individual, or MLRO submitting the report only once in the source ID field but nowhere else in the report;
- do not include names of personnel who made internal reports to the MLRO;

⁷ The review into the future of the SAR regime, known as the Sir Stephen Lander Review, included recommendations regarding the importance of maintaining and improving confidentiality in the SAR regime.

- only include parties as subjects where this information is necessary for an understanding of the report, or to meet the standards of the required disclosure; and
- highlight clearly in the reasons for suspicion/disclosure field any particular concern the reporter has about safety (in physical, reputational or other terms).

7.24 Whilst it is reasonable for an MLRO to answer questions from a SOCA officer or a law enforcement officer aimed simply at clarifying the content of a SAR, any further disclosure to SOCA or law enforcement or prosecuting agencies should normally only be undertaken in response to the exercise of a power to obtain information contained in relevant legislation, or in compliance with professional guidance on the balance of confidentiality and making disclosures in the public interest. This provides protection for the MLRO and the business against any allegation of breach of confidentiality.

7.25 A facility exists for any person to make voluntary disclosures to SOCA under s34, SOCPA provided that:

- the disclosure is made for the purposes of the exercise by SOCA of any of its functions (ss2-4, SOCPA);
- it is not a disclosure of personal data in contravention of the Data Protection Act 1998 where that personal data is not exempt from its provisions;
- it is not a disclosure prohibited by Part 1, Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (relating to unlawful interception of communications).

If a disclosure meets these requirements, the person making the disclosure does not breach any duty of confidentiality or other restriction on the disclosure of information, however imposed. We recommend a cautious approach to disclosure under this section, as it is important to be sure that all the required conditions are met.

THE PRIVILEGE REPORTING EXEMPTION

7.26 With effect from 21 February 2006, a relevant professional adviser who suspects or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting that another person is engaged in money laundering is exempted from making a money laundering report where his knowledge or suspicion comes to him in privileged circumstances (the privilege reporting exemption). In such circumstances, provided that the information is not given to him with the intention (by his client or another person) of furthering a criminal purpose ('the crime/fraud exception' – see sections 7.42 to 7.46 below), s330(6) affords the adviser a complete defence against a charge of failure to disclose (ie, to make a SAR). By implication, the exemption also means that in these circumstances a business should not make a SAR, as they are expected to be bound by the same standards of behaviour as is the case for legal professional advisers subject to legal professional privilege.

7.27 Discussions with the MLRO to seek advice about making a report under s 330, POCA shall not be taken to be an internal report when it was not intended as such, eg, if the person initiating the discussion believes the matter falls within the privilege reporting exemption and contacts the MLRO to confirm this. On receipt of such an approach, it is recommended the MLRO still collects the information which would otherwise be included in the required disclosure to enable careful consideration with the reporter of whether or not the matter falls within the privilege reporting exemption and, if it does, whether this is overridden by the crime/fraud exception. It is recommended that the MLRO documents the decision reached in this regard and the reasons for reaching that decision.

7.28 A relevant professional adviser is defined in the legislation as:

- an accountant, auditor or tax adviser who is a member of a professional body which is established for accountants, auditors or tax advisers (as the case may be); and which makes provision for;
 - (a) testing the competence of those seeking admission to membership of such a body as a condition for such admission; and
 - (b) imposing and maintaining professional and ethical standards for its members, as well as imposing sanctions for non-compliance with those standards.

The privilege reporting exemption also extends to persons in partnership with (or equivalent), or employed by, the relevant professional adviser to provide them with assistance or support. The information must come to these partners or employees in connection with this assistance or support and to the relevant professional adviser in privileged circumstances.

7.29 The legislation does not list which professional bodies meet the criteria listed in s 330 (14), but the CCAB member bodies meet those criteria and, accordingly, individuals who are members of a CCAB member body, those in partnership with such individuals in businesses regulated by the CCAB and the employees of such businesses and individuals are within the scope of the exemptions. If businesses or individuals are in any doubt as to whether these provisions apply to them, it is recommended that they seek legal advice.

7.30 However, the amendments referred to above affect only the duty to make money laundering reports and related disclosures under POCA. They do not in any way extend legal professional privilege to advice given by relevant professional advisers in any other circumstances. However, businesses and individuals need to be aware, when responding to requests for further information (sections 9.11 to 9.17), documents subject to a client's privilege are not disclosable.

7.31 If a relevant professional adviser considers that the information or other matter on which his knowledge or suspicion is based came to him in privileged circumstances, he is obliged to apply the privilege reporting exemption in s330(6), POCA (unless the crime/fraud exception applies) and so has no discretion to make a money laundering report. This means that the relevant professional adviser could find himself in a situation where he might wish to make a report but is prevented from doing so. In such circumstances, he should consider whether he may continue to act, but in carrying out his decision will need to bear in mind the provisions of POCA relating to prejudicing an investigation (s342, POCA).

7.32 Whether or not the privilege reporting exemption applies needs to be considered carefully, including a consideration as to whether the relevant professional adviser was working in privileged circumstances when the particular information or other matter came to him. This is an important consideration, as a relevant professional adviser may be providing a variety of services to a client, not all of which may create privileged circumstances for this purpose. Accordingly, it is strongly recommended that a careful record is maintained of the provenance of information considered when a decision is made on the applicability or otherwise of the privilege reporting exemption.

- 7.33 Set out below is a description of the two types of privileged circumstances and some examples of work which may fall within or outside of them.

Legal advice

- 7.34 For the privileged circumstances set out in s330(10)(a) and (b), POCA to apply, the following conditions need to exist:

- there needs to be a confidential communication (written or oral) between the relevant professional adviser and his client, or a representative of the client, in which the client seeks or the relevant professional adviser gives legal advice;
- that communication must take place within the confines of a professional relationship between them, including an initial meeting which does not progress to a business relationship; and
- the communication must relate to legal advice (ie, advice concerning the rights, liabilities and obligations or remedies of the client under the law).

Litigation

- 7.35 For the privileged circumstance set out in s330(10)(c), POCA to apply, the following conditions need to exist:

- there must be a confidential communication (written or oral) between the relevant professional advisor and the client or third party;
- the confidential communication must be made for the dominant purpose (ie, the overriding purpose) of being used in connection with actual, pending or contemplated litigation.

Defining contemplated litigation is difficult. In summary, it is usually necessary to be able to identify some act that gives rise to a cause of action in relation to which some threat of legal action has either been clearly intimated or is more than reasonably likely to follow. The party seeking to claim the benefit of litigation privilege must show that he was aware of circumstances that rendered litigation between himself and a particular person or class of persons a real likelihood rather than a mere possibility.

Examples of privileged circumstances

- 7.36 Examples where relevant professional advisers might frequently fall within privileged circumstances as regards legal advice privilege include, where this advice is delivered as part of the provision of a defined service:

- advice on taxation matters, where the tax adviser is giving advice on the interpretation or application of any element of tax law and in the process is assisting a client to understand his tax position;
- advice on the legal aspects of a take-over bid, for example on points under the Companies Act legislation;
- advice on duties of directors under the Companies Act;

- advice to directors on legal issues relating to the Insolvency Act 1986, eg, on the legal aspects of wrongful trading; and
- advice on employment law

7.37 Examples where relevant professional advisers might fall within privileged circumstances as regards litigation privilege include:

- assisting a client by taking witness statements from him or from third parties in respect of litigation;
- representing a client, as permitted, at a tax tribunal; and
- when instructed as an expert witness by a solicitor on behalf of a client in respect of litigation.

7.38 It should be noted that conducting audit work does not of itself give rise to privileged circumstances for this purpose, as the relevant professional adviser is neither providing legal advice, nor is he instructed in respect of litigation. Nor do routine book-keeping, accounts preparation or tax compliance assignments, though privileged circumstances may arise if the client requests or the adviser gives, legal advice on an informal basis, during the course of such an assignment

7.39 It is recommended that the reasons for the conclusion reached as to whether the privilege reporting exemption applies are carefully documented. If the relevant professional adviser decides it does apply, he must act in accordance with the privileged reporting exemption unless the crime/fraud exception applies. If in doubt, it is recommended that businesses and individuals seek professional or legal advice.

Recording and discussion with the MLRO

7.40 Even where the client service team believe that the privilege reporting exemption applies, businesses should consider whether all matters involving knowledge or suspicion of money laundering should still be referred to the MLRO for advice or to another appropriate person (see section 7.41 of this Guidance). Discussion of a matter with the MLRO, where the purpose of the discussion is the obtaining of advice about making a disclosure under s330, does not alter the applicability of the privilege reporting exemption. Given the complexity of these matters, and the need for considered and consistent treatment with adequate documentation of decisions made, a referral to and discussion with the MLRO is likely to be beneficial and is recommended. The MLRO may decide, with the reporter, to seek further appropriate advice.

7.41 Likewise reporters within a business are entitled to seek advice from an appropriate specialist (either a person within the business who would fall into the category specified in s330(7B) or an external adviser who himself is able to apply the privilege reporting exemption) without altering the applicability of the privilege reporting exemption.

The Crime/Fraud Exception

7.42 Before determining whether the privilege reporting exemption must be applied, consideration needs to be given to whether the exemption is lost through application of the crime/fraud exception. This exception, as set out in s330(11), POCA, overrides the privilege reporting exemption which:

‘does not apply to information or other matter which is communicated or given with the intention of furthering a criminal purpose’.

This means that communications that would otherwise qualify under one or other of the above two types of privilege are not covered by the privilege reporting exemption where the communication was intended to facilitate or to guide someone (usually the client but possibly a third party) in the commission, or furtherance, of any crime or fraud. An example of this might be where tax advice was sought ostensibly to enable the affairs of a tax evader to be regularised but in reality was sought to aid continued evasion by improving the evader’s understanding of the relevant issues.

7.43 The crime/fraud exception also applies where communication takes place between a client and his adviser in circumstances where the client is the innocent tool of a third party’s criminal or fraudulent purpose. An example of this might be where a money launderer gives money to a family member, who is unaware of the source of that money, to purchase a property, for which purpose he communicates with his adviser.

7.44 The crime/fraud exception does not apply where the adviser is approached to advise on the consequences of a crime or fraud or similar conduct that has already taken place and where the client has no intention, in seeking advice, to further that crime or fraud. This means that a person who is concerned that he may be guilty of tax evasion can approach a tax adviser for legal advice in this regard without fear of the exception being invoked. This remains the case even if the potential client declines a client relationship having received the advice, and the adviser does not know whether the person will proceed to rectify his affairs. However, if the person behaves in a way that makes the adviser suspicious that he intends to use the advice to further his evasion, then a money laundering report could be required.

7.45 The crime/fraud exception is a difficult area and the Courts will not usually allow the exception to be invoked unless there is reasonably compelling circumstantial evidence available that demonstrates that the communications have in some way been intended to further the crime or the fraud. A mere speculation may not be sufficient as a basis to invoke it. It is strongly recommended that professional or legal advice is sought in all cases of doubt.

7.46 In summary, the following issues need to be considered before deciding whether to apply the privileged reporting exemption:

- (a) Are those who received the information or other matter which gave rise to knowledge or suspicion of money laundering relevant professional advisers (s330(14) and s330(6)(b))?
- (b) Was the relevant professional adviser acting in privileged circumstances (s330(10))?
- (c) Was the information or other matter which gave rise to knowledge or suspicion of money laundering actually received in privileged circumstances (s330(10)) and not in some other communication or situation?

(d) Was the information or other matter received or communicated with the intention of furthering a criminal purpose (ie, does the crime/fraud exception apply (s330(10))?)

If the answers to (a), (b), and (c) are yes, and the answer to (d) is no, the privileged reporting exemption must be applied. If the answer to (a), (b), and (c) are yes and the answer to (d) is yes, the crime fraud exception applies and a money laundering report must be made. Further advice should be sought from the relevant professional body or a lawyer in cases of doubt. This issue may be vital in balancing legal and professional requirements for confidentiality and for serving the public interest and the interests of clients. If doubts cannot be resolved through internal discussion, through access to normal sources of professional advice, businesses are strongly recommended to seek advice from a professional legal adviser with experience of these matters.

SECTION 8 – CONSENT

KEY POINTS

- If a business or an individual believes an activity they are going to undertake would constitute a money laundering offence under ss327-329 POCA then they must make an authorised disclosure under s338, POCA (or have a reasonable excuse for not having made such a report); and
- If the authorised report was made before the money laundering activity took place, the reporter must receive an appropriate consent (s335, POCA) before proceeding with the activity or an offence will be committed
- On receipt of the appropriate consent under s335, POCA, an MLRO may then provide this consent to the business under the provisions of s336, POCA
- Once a consent request is made, this may be granted by SOCA or given by default once 7 working days starting the working day after submission of the consent request (the 'notice period') has elapsed, or consent may be refused
- If consent is refused during the 7 working day notice period, a moratorium period of 31 days starts on the day notice of refusal is received during which the activity may not be undertaken unless and until the moratorium period expires.
- Once the moratorium has expired, then if no restraining action has been taken by law enforcement, the activity in question may be continued.

MATTERS FOR CONSENT

- 8.1 The MLRO needs to consider carefully when preparing to make a SAR whether continuation of activity by the business in respect of the subject matter of the SAR may potentially involve the business in carrying out an act which would constitute a money laundering offence.
- 8.2 Whilst this, on the face of it, appears relatively unlikely in the context of the defined services there are situations where consent issues do arise and careful consideration should be given to this possibility.
- 8.3 Before applying for consent it is important to consider whether the proposed activity is a matter to which SOCA is empowered to consent. SOCA's power is strictly limited to being able to consent to activity that would otherwise be an offence under any of ss327-329, POCA. In particular, it should be noted that consent may not be sought or given for offences under s333A, POCA (tipping off) or s342, POCA (prejudicing an investigation) or for any other POCA offence except those under ss327-329, POCA. As well as having only restricted powers to consent to POCA offences, it does not have the power to consent to an act which would otherwise constitute the commission of any other criminal offence. Accordingly, it cannot give consent to eg, an adviser knowingly submitting a false VAT return on behalf of a client as this would be a separate criminal offence on the part of the adviser as well as an offence under s328, POCA.
- 8.4 If in doubt as to whether a matter requires (or is eligible for) consent or not, either legal advice should be sought, or recourse had to helplines provided by the relevant supervisory bodies. Advice should not be sought from SOCA as they are not in a position to advise, although it will make clear if a matter falls outside of its powers.

8.5 Some of the more common instances where a consent may be required include:

- acting as an insolvency officeholder where there is knowledge or suspicion either that the assets may in whole or in part represent criminal property, or where the insolvent entity may enter into or become concerned in an arrangement under s328, POCA
- designing and implementing trust and company structures for clients, including acting as trustees or company officers, where there is knowledge or suspicion that these structures are being, or may be about to be, used to launder money;
- acting on behalf of the client in the negotiation and implementation of transactions where these involve an element of criminal property being either bought or sold by a client, for example corporate acquisitions;
- handling money in client accounts which is suspected to be of criminal origin; and
- providing outsourced business processing for clients where money is suspected to be of criminal origin.

8.6 There will be some cases where businesses consider they no longer wish to act for the client in question and will decline to conduct the requested activity and possibly terminate the relationship. This is a matter for the business and not a matter for consent. However, this is unlikely to be the case in terms of insolvency appointments, or when acting for the innocent purchaser of assets of suspicious origin. Businesses may on occasion decide that undertaking an activity which might otherwise constitute an offence under ss327-329, POCA may, at least in the short term, provided there is consent, be the most practical option even if there is no intention to continue acting for the client in the longer term. In particular, this might apply when monies are already held in client account and need to be returned to or paid away on the instructions of a known or suspected criminal and either a consent is required to enable transfer of monies away, or law enforcement confiscation activity is required to resolve the matter.

8.7 Consent requests must be clear as to the nature of the knowledge or suspicion of money laundering and specific as to the type and extent of the activity for which consent is requested, including how that activity would otherwise constitute an offence under ss327-329, POCA, or the consent request will not be accepted as a valid request by SOCA and no protection will be obtained.

8.8 SOCA's priority in terms of dealing with consent issues are understandably focussed on those where there is an opportunity for law enforcement intervention either to confiscate assets or to prevent the commission of crime or acts of terrorism. Clearly, these may not entirely match with the priorities of the person requesting consent, who will be driven by client and transaction related considerations. To give the best chance of having a consent request processed rapidly, it is important to tick the consent box provided on the forms and it is recommended that any critical timescale attaching to the activity is explained clearly, and if the report is complex, a summary of key facts and the request is given at the beginning of the report, before explaining the supporting detail.

8.9 In terms of insolvency, SOCA are accustomed to dealing with consent requests from officeholders and, in general, officeholders should request consent to carry out their duties as an officeholder rather than attempting to request consent for specific transactions or activities. SOCA will try and provide a very rapid turnaround to such requests, as they recognise the unique position of a licensed officeholder acting as such. In order that SOCA can rapidly identify requests for consent from an insolvency officeholder, this should be made clear at the beginning of the report requesting consent, specifying the type of insolvency appointment as well as providing all the other required detail.

CONSTRUCTIVE TRUST

- 8.10 Where client assets or monies are held, and in forming knowledge or suspicion of money laundering businesses become concerned about potential third party claims to the assets or monies, appropriately qualified legal or professional advice should be sought. This is a complex area of law and any SOCA consent will not protect a business against the claims of a third party, but only against any accusation of money laundering. However, SOCA are aware of the need to avoid any unwarranted disadvantage accruing to the regulated sector, arising from issues of constructive trusts. Where constructive trusts could be an issue, businesses are strongly advised to draw this to the attention of SOCA when making a SAR, so that this can be taken into account in the way SOCA deals with the application for consent.

SUSPENSION OF ACTIVITY

- 8.11 Once a consent request has been made, the process must be adhered to and the activity that would otherwise be a money laundering offence refrained from unless and until consent has been received (or the notice period expired), or in the event consent has been refused, until the moratorium period has expired. Failure to do so risks prosecution either for a money laundering offence and/or, in the case of an MLRO giving consent for an activity to continue before he is entitled to do so, an offence under s336 (5) punishable by imprisonment and/or a fine.
- 8.12 It is appreciated that it is extremely difficult, in some cases, to explain to clients and other parties why activity has ceased in an unexpected fashion. Whilst SOCA will make every reasonable effort to deliver a rapid consent, in some cases the full 7 working days will be taken before a decision is reached whilst the matter is considered with law enforcement, and the potential for intervention in terms of confiscation, arrest etc is considered.
- 8.13 There is nothing in the legislation which provides for how a business may/may not deal with the issues arising from delay. There is nothing which requires a business to lie to clients or other parties, and clearly to lie would be unacceptable conduct for a professional, but businesses must take into account the provisions of the offences concerning tipping off and prejudicing an investigation when informing parties of delays. If the delay is such as to cause the client or other parties to question the business as to the reasons for delay, businesses may be well advised simply and persistently to refuse to enter into any discussion of the matter and explain that, with regret, they are unable at this point to discuss the matter further. Clearly, this is not a form of behaviour or communication with clients that would normally be engaged in, but the period after a request for consent has been made is an exceptional period, although frequently of very short duration and manageable in the normal course of business.
- 8.14 In exceptional circumstances, where an unexpected delay in carrying out a service for a client is likely to alert a money launderer, in a way that could bring harm to an individual or the business or could materially undermine a criminal investigation, MLROs are recommended to ask SOCA to be put in touch with the Law Enforcement Authority dealing with the situation, to discuss the circumstances.

APPLYING FOR AND RECEIVING CONSENT

- 8.15 Consent may only be requested on the basis of a properly submitted SAR, made under the provisions of s338, POCA (authorised disclosures). The ‘consent required’ option should be selected on all methods of submission to alert SOCA to the request and enable them to prioritise appropriately. In cases of real urgency, a telephone call may also be made to alert SOCA to any special circumstances.
- 8.16 The consent request should be clear as to the reasons for knowledge or suspicion, the intended activity, and the nature of the consent requested. Great care is needed when requesting consent to cover the extent of the intended activity in a way that makes it clear to SOCA exactly what is being requested. Too narrow a consent request may mean repeated requests will be required causing issues of cost and efficiency to the business and possibly unnecessary client service impact. Too broad or ill-defined a consent may well result in SOCA having to refuse consent or possibly even determining the request is not validly made as it does not show clearly the act or acts to be undertaken which would otherwise be an offence under ss327-329, POCA.
- 8.17 Consent will frequently be received initially over the telephone from SOCA, and the name and contact number of the officer, and the consent reference should be noted on the MLRO records with the date and time of the call. Written confirmation ordinarily follows in due course but this may take several days and MLROs may rely on the telephone consent.
- 8.18 Once consent has been received by the MLRO under the provisions of s335 POCA, he should then (under the provisions of s336, POCA) promptly inform the engagement team affected and give them clearance to continue their work, and any other guidance they might require as regards money laundering matters.
- 8.19 If a period of 7 working days, starting the first working day after the consent request is made (the notice period), has elapsed with no refusal having been received, consent is deemed to have been given and the activity may be allowed to continue.

Refusal of consent

- 8.20 If consent is refused during the notice period, then a further 31 days must elapse, starting with the day on which the consent is refused, before the activity may continue (the moratorium period). It may be that during either the notice period, or the moratorium period, that action is taken by law enforcement which means that the activity may no longer be able to be continued (eg, confiscation or other enforcement action may occur).
- 8.21 If no action has been taken to restrain the activity during the moratorium period, the activity may continue as planned.

EXEMPTIONS FOR BANKS AND DEPOSIT TAKERS

- 8.22 The Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 put in place a threshold provision in POCA (ss327-329) that allows banks and deposit takers to continue to operate an account with an activity which potentially constitutes money laundering provided this relates to transactions worth £250 or less or as laid down from time to time in statutory instruments. Note that this change does not affect the requirement to report suspicious, does not constitute a 'de-minimis' provision, and is not available to providers of defined services.⁸

⁸ See JMLSG Guidance for details on the change in thresholds for banks and deposit taking institutions.

SECTION 9 – POST SAR ACTIONS

KEY POINTS

- Once a SAR has been submitted, the business needs to consider whether or not the content of the SAR requires any change to, or even cessation in, any related client relationship.
- In addition, careful consideration needs to be given to reconciling the need to fulfil professional duties, whilst avoiding the risks of tipping off.
- A SAR may be followed by requests for further information from law enforcement or prosecuting agencies, both informal and by means of relevant orders. Businesses need to have in place procedures for checking the validity of requests, and for ensuring a proper response is made.

CONTINUING WORK IN CONNECTION WITH A REPORTED MATTER

Client relationships

- 9.1 Businesses do not have to stop working after submission of a SAR unless a consent has been requested, in which case all or part of client work may well require to be suspended until consent is received. In cases where consent has been requested and refused, the work which was the subject of the request will need to be suspended.
- 9.2 However, even where consent was not required, where a SAR involves a client as a suspect, businesses may wish to consider whether the behaviour observed is such that for professional reasons the business no longer wishes to act.
- 9.3 Generally, if following a report of suspicion a business wishes for its own commercial or ethical reasons to exit a relationship, there is nothing to prevent this provided the way the exit is communicated does not constitute tipping off. This also applies to the prejudicing an investigation offence outlined below.
- 9.4 If a decision is made to terminate a client relationship, a business should follow its normal procedures in this regard, whilst always bearing in mind the need to avoid tipping off.

Balancing professional work and POCA requirements

- 9.5 Normal commercial enquiries to understand a transaction carried out in the course of an engagement will not generally lead to tipping off, although care should be exercised to avoid either making a disclosure prohibited under ss333A-333D, POCA (see section 2.19 of this Guidance) or making accusations or suggesting that any person is guilty of an offence. It is important to confine enquiries to those required in the ordinary course of business and not attempt to investigate a matter unless that is within the scope of the professional work commissioned.
- 9.6 Continuation of work may require discussion with client senior management of matters relating to suspicions formed. This may be of particular importance in audit relationships. Care must be taken to select appropriate, and non-complicit, members of senior management for such discussion whilst always bearing in mind the need to avoid tipping off.

- 9.7 In more complex circumstances, consultation with law enforcement may be necessary before enquiries are continued, but in most cases a common sense approach will resolve the issue. Note that neither SOCA nor law enforcement may give consent to tipping off, but discussions with them are still valuable.
- 9.8 Businesses may wish to consult the MLRO or other suitable specialist (for example a solicitor) regularly if there are tipping off concerns, and in particular it is important that before any document referring to the subject matter of a report is released to a third party the MLRO is consulted and, in extreme cases, law enforcement. Some typical examples of documents released to third parties are shown below as an aide memoire:
- public audit or other attest reports;
 - public record reports to regulators;
 - confidential reports to regulators (eg to the FSA under relevant auditing standards);
 - provision of information to sponsors or other statements in connection with Rule 2.12 of the UK Stock Exchange Listing Rules;
 - reports under the Companies Directors Disqualification Act 1986;
 - reports under s218 of the Insolvency Act 1986;
 - Companies Act statements on resignation as auditors;
 - professional clearance/etiquette letters;
 - communications to clients of intention to resign.
- 9.9 In particular, audit resignations require statements to be filed at Companies House and the contents of such statements require careful consideration to ensure that statutory and professional duties are met, without including such information as may constitute tipping off. There is no legal mechanism for obtaining clearance from SOCA for the contents of such statements or other documents relating to resignation. However, businesses may well wish in cases of complexity to discuss the matter with SOCA or the relevant law enforcement agency in order to understand their perspective and document such discussion.
- 9.10 MLROs may on occasion need advice to assist them in formulating their instructions to the business. Legal advice may be sought from a suitably skilled and knowledgeable professional legal adviser, and recourse may also be had to helplines and support services provided by professional bodies. Discussion with SOCA and law enforcement may well be valuable, but MLROs should bear in mind these authorities are not able to advise, and nor are they entitled to dictate how professional relationships should be conducted.

REQUESTS FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

Requests from SOCA or Law Enforcement Agencies

- 9.11 SOCA or a Law Enforcement Authority may contact a business (usually the MLRO) or an individual to ask for further information about a SAR it/he has submitted. Before responding, it is recommended that a verification process is undertaken to ensure the person making contact is a bona fide member of SOCA/law enforcement. This may be most simply achieved by taking a caller's name and agency/force details, and then calling the main switchboard of the agency/force to be put through to the person.

- 9.12 To the extent that the request is simply aimed at clarifying the content of a SAR, businesses/individuals may respond without the need for any further process.
- 9.13 However, if the request is for production of documents, or provision of information additional to the SAR, it is recommended that businesses/individuals require the relevant agency to use its powers of compulsion before they respond. This is not intended to be non co-operative, and indeed businesses/individuals are recommended to engage in constructive dialogue with SOCA/law enforcement, including as to the content and drafting of the request, but is intended to protect businesses/individuals from allegations that they breached confidentiality. Client or other third party consent is not required in cases of compulsion, and nor should it be sought due to the risk of tipping off.
- 9.14 Before responding to orders for production of information, businesses/individuals should ensure they understand:
- the authority under which the request is made;
 - the extent of the information requested;
 - the required timing and manner of the production of information; and
 - what information should be excluded eg, that subject to legal privilege,

If in any doubt, businesses/individuals should seek legal advice. Businesses should document their consideration of the issues.

- 9.15 None of the notices or orders will require the production of information that is subject to legal privilege or legal professional privilege. Terms used in the various relevant Acts of Parliament and the way the terms are defined vary slightly and it may be appropriate to take legal advice if unsure. The interaction of the privilege reporting exemption with the carve-outs for privileged material in the notices and orders outlined below is not clear, and has yet to be tested. This is a complex area of law. If individuals or businesses are unsure as to whether certain documents fall within the privileged category or not, they should not include these documents in initial disclosure and, before the expiry of the time allowed for disclosure, should inform the person to whom the information is to be provided that they believe they have material subject to privilege and request that, if they think it necessary to gain access to this material, the relevant agency appoint independent counsel to opine as to whether the material is disclosable, or not. The opinion of counsel may then be complied with.
- 9.16 Before passing across information to an officer, businesses should require the person identify themselves by eg showing a warrant card and a copy of the relevant order, or businesses may attend the premises of the relevant agency to hand over the information.
- 9.17 Orders for production of information may be received under a variety of legislation. In each case, production may be required in hard copy even where stored on a computer, or in electronic form where stored as such. Those which most commonly flow from SARs include the following:
- Production Orders under the provisions of POCA

Production Orders are made under s354, POCA, and are made only by a judge in respect of a confiscation investigation, or a money laundering investigation. The maximum period for compliance will be 7 days starting with the day on which the order is made unless the judge thinks a shorter period should be applied. Failure to comply is treated as breach of a Court Order and penalties will be applied as such. There is no requirement to produce documents which are privileged, being material which a person would be entitled to refuse to produce on grounds of privilege in the High Court. For the interaction of this provision with the privilege reporting exemption, see section 9.15 of this Guidance.

- Disclosure Notices under the provisions of SOCPA

A disclosure notice may be issued by an investigating authority (the Director of Public Prosecutions, the Director of Revenue and Customs Prosecutions and the Lord Advocate or their permitted delegates under s60, SOCPA) in respect of certain offences only. These are broadly those listed in Schedule 2 (Schedule 4 in Scotland) to POCA, offences under ss15-18, TA 2000, certain duty offences, false accounting (s17, Theft Act 1968 in England and Wales) and certain matters concerning attempts at/conspiracy to commit certain offences. S61, SOCPA should be referred to in the case of any such notice being received to check it is in respect of a qualifying offence. ss62-65, SOCPA then set out the procedures in respect of the issue of the notice, and the response to it. The provisions of the notice will govern the extent of the information to be provided, and the timing, place and manner of disclosure. There is no requirement to produce documents or answer questions where the matter is subject to legal professional privilege, or legal privilege (as defined in s412, POCA. For the interaction of this provision with the privilege reporting exemption, see section 9.15. Failure, without reasonable excuse, to comply is a criminal offence and penalties of up to two years imprisonment and/or an unlimited fine may be levied.

- S2 notices issued by the Serious Fraud Office under the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act 1987.

Under s2, Criminal Justice Act 1987, staff authorised by the Director of the Serious Fraud Office have powers to require a person to answer questions, provide information or produce documents for the purposes of an investigation. Written notice is given where the Serious Fraud Office exercise these powers. In urgent cases, the Serious Fraud Office may require immediate compliance with a notice, but frequently will give a period of time for compliance. There is no requirement to produce documents which are privileged, being material which a person would be entitled to refuse to produce on grounds of privilege in the High Court. Failure to comply is a criminal offence punishable with imprisonment for up to 6 months and/or a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale. For the interaction of this provision with the privilege reporting exemption, see section 9.15 of this Guidance.

Requests arising from a change of professional advisor (professional enquiries)

Requests regarding identification information

- 9.18 In such a case the disclosure request may be made under the provisions of Regulation 17, reliance, or the new adviser may simply want copies of identification evidence, in order to assist it in satisfying its own identification procedures. Businesses should not release confidential information without the client's consent. If reliance is being placed on the business, it should follow the guidance in section 5.36 above in relation to record keeping.

Requests for information regarding suspicious activity

- 9.19 In general, it is recommended that such requests are declined as the tipping off offence in the regulated sector greatly restricts the ability to make such disclosures. However, to the extent that the request is within the provisions of s333C, POCA (section 2.19 of this Guidance) information may be provided (but there is no obligation to do so).

Data Protection Act - Subject Access Requests

- 9.20 Under the Data Protection Act 1998 businesses are exempted from disclosure under a subject access request where disclosure would be or is likely to be prejudicial to the prevention or detection of crime or the capture or conviction of offenders. Where personal data is held on a subject and relates to knowledge or suspicion of money laundering (ie, it has been processed for the purpose of the prevention or detection of crime) it is not required to be disclosed under a subject access request if disclosure may constitute a tipping off offence. This exception should be applied to internal and SAR reporting records.
- 9.21 Guidance has been issued by HM Treasury (www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/D/F/money_laundering.pdf) supporting the position that where granting access would amount to 'tipping off' then the s29 Data Protection Act exemption would apply.
- 9.22 It is recommended that businesses document any considerations surrounding the decision to grant or refuse access to information requested in such circumstances (known as a 'subject access request').

Specified disclosure obligations	See Annex A to the Glossary
Specified interest	A vested interest which is:

- in possession or in remainder or reversion (or, in Scotland, in fee); and
- defeasible or indefeasible.

A 'vested interest' is an interest which to which an entitlement already exists (whether immediately - 'in possession'; or in the future, following the ending of another interest - 'in remainder' or 'in reversion'). It is in contrast to an interest which is merely 'contingent'; a contingent interest is an interest which will only arise on the happening of a particular event, such as surviving to a particular date or surviving a particular person. Determining whether an interest is vested or contingent requires careful analysis. For example, if a trust provides that A has a life interest, and that B has an interest which takes effect on A's death, both A and B will have vested interests and, if B does not survive A, B's interest will devolve as part of B's estate; however, if B's interest is expressed to take effect on A's death only if he (B) is then living, B's interest (which will fail if he predeceases A) is merely contingent.

A defeasible interest is one which may be defeated, generally by the exercise of a power under the trust deed; an indefeasible interest is one which cannot be defeated. In the examples given above, A and B both have indefeasible interests. It is important that a defeasible vested interest is not mistaken for a contingent interest. A defeasible vested interest will take effect unless and until it is defeated; a contingent interest on the other hand will not take effect unless and until the event on which it is contingent arises.

DETAILS OF THE “SPECIFIED DISCLOSURE OBLIGATIONS” REFERRED TO IN REGULATION 13 (3) MLR2007 RE SIMPLIFIED DUE DILIGENCE

DIRECTIVE 2003/6/EC OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 28 January 2003 on insider dealing and market manipulation (market abuse)

Article 6

1. Member States shall ensure that issuers of financial instruments inform the public as soon as possible of inside information which directly concerns the said issuers.

Without prejudice to any measures taken to comply with the provisions of the first subparagraph, Member States shall ensure that issuers, for an appropriate period, post on their Internet sites all inside information that they are required to disclose publicly.

2. An issuer may under his own responsibility delay the public disclosure of inside information, as referred to in paragraph 1, such as not to prejudice his legitimate interests provided that such omission would not be likely to mislead the public and provided that the issuer is able to ensure the confidentiality of that information. Member States may require that an issuer shall without delay inform the competent authority of the decision to delay the public disclosure of inside information.

3. Member States shall require that, whenever an issuer, or a person acting on his behalf or for his account, discloses any inside information to any third party in the normal exercise of his employment, profession or duties, as referred to in Article 3(a), he must make complete and effective public disclosure of that information, simultaneously in the case of an intentional disclosure and promptly in the case of a non-intentional disclosure.

The provisions of the first subparagraph shall not apply if the person receiving the information owes a duty of confidentiality, regardless of whether such duty is based on a law, on regulations, on articles of association or on a contract.

Member States shall require that issuers, or persons acting on their behalf or for their account, draw up a list of those persons working for them, under a contract of employment or otherwise, who have access to inside information. Issuers and persons acting on their behalf or for their account shall regularly update this list and transmit it to the competent authority whenever the latter requests it.

4. However, any subsequent resale of securities which were previously the subject of one or more of the types of offer mentioned in this paragraph shall be regarded as a separate offer and the definition set out in Article 2(1)(d) shall apply for the purpose of deciding whether that resale is an offer of securities to the public. The placement of securities through financial intermediaries shall be subject to publication of a prospectus if none of the conditions (a) to (e) are met for the final placement.

3. Member States shall ensure that any admission of securities to trading on a regulated market situated or operating within their territories is subject to the publication of a prospectus.

Article 5

The prospectus

1. Without prejudice to Article 8(2), the prospectus shall contain all information which, according to the particular nature of the issuer and of the securities offered to the public or admitted to trading on a regulated market, is necessary to enable investors to make an informed assessment of the assets and liabilities, financial position, profit and losses, and prospects of the issuer and of any guarantor, and of the rights attaching to such securities. This information shall be presented in an easily analysable and comprehensible form.

2. The prospectus shall contain information concerning the issuer and the securities to be offered to the public or to be admitted to trading on a regulated market. It shall also include a summary. The summary shall also contain a warning that:

(a) it should be read as an introduction to the prospectus;

(b) any decision to invest in the securities should be based on consideration of the prospectus as a whole by the investor;

(c) where a claim relating to the information contained in a prospectus is brought before a court, the plaintiff investor might, under the national legislation of the Member States, have to bear the costs of translating the prospectus before the legal proceedings are initiated; and

A prospectus composed of separate documents shall divide the required information into a registration document, a securities note and a summary note. The registration document shall contain the information relating to the issuer. The securities note shall contain the information concerning the securities offered to the public or to be admitted to trading on a regulated market.

For the following types of securities, the prospectus can, at the choice of the issuer, offeror or person asking for the admission to trading on a regulated market consist of a base prospectus containing all relevant information concerning the issuer and the securities offered to the public or to be admitted to trading on a regulated market:

(b) non-equity securities issued in a continuous or repeated manner by credit institutions,

(ii) where, in the event of the insolvency of the related credit institution, the said sums are intended, as a priority, to repay the capital and interest falling due, without prejudice to the provisions of Directive 2001/24/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 4 April 2001 on the reorganisation and winding up of credit institutions(14).

The information given in the base prospectus shall be supplemented, if necessary, in accordance with Article 16, with updated information on the issuer and on the securities to be offered to the public or to be admitted to trading on a regulated market.

If the final terms of the offer are not included in either the base prospectus or a supplement, the final terms shall be provided to investors and filed with the competent authority when each public offer is made as soon as practicable and if possible in advance of the beginning of the offer. The provisions of Article 8(1)(a) shall be applicable in any such case.

(c) such information is of minor importance only for a specific offer or admission to trading on a regulated market and is not such as will influence the assessment of the financial position and prospects of the issuer, offeror or guarantor, if any.

3. Without prejudice to the adequate information of investors, where, exceptionally, certain information required by implementing measures referred to in Article 7(1) to be included in a prospectus is inappropriate to the issuer's sphere of activity or to the legal form of the issuer or to the securities to which the prospectus relates, the prospectus shall contain information equivalent to the required information. If there is no such information, this requirement shall not apply.

The first set of implementing measures shall be adopted by 1 July 2004.

In addition, in the case of an initial public offer of a class of shares not already admitted to trading on a regulated market that is to be admitted to trading for the first time, the prospectus shall be available at least six working days before the end of the offer.

2. The prospectus shall be deemed available to the public when published either:

(a) by insertion in one or more newspapers circulated throughout, or widely circulated in, the Member States in which the offer to the public is made or the admission to trading is sought; or

(b) in a printed form to be made available, free of charge, to the public at the offices of the market on which the securities are being admitted to trading, or at the registered office of the issuer and at the offices of the financial intermediaries placing or selling the securities, including paying agents; or

(c) in an electronic form on the issuer's website and, if applicable, on the website of the financial intermediaries placing or selling the securities, including paying agents; or

(d) in an electronic form on the website of the regulated market where the admission to trading is sought; or

(e) in electronic form on the website of the competent authority of the home Member State if the said authority has decided to offer this service.

A home Member State may require issuers which publish their prospectus in accordance with (a) or (b) also to publish their prospectus in an electronic form in accordance with (c).

3. In addition, a home Member State may require publication of a notice stating how the prospectus has been made available and where it can be obtained by the public.

4. The competent authority of the home Member State shall publish on its website over a period of 12 months, at its choice, all the prospectuses approved, or at least the list of prospectuses approved in accordance with Article 13, including, if applicable, a hyperlink to the prospectus published on the website of the issuer, or on the website of the regulated market.

5. In the case of a prospectus comprising several documents and/or incorporating information by reference, the documents and information making up the prospectus may be published and circulated separately provided that the said documents are made available, free of charge, to the public, in accordance with the arrangements established in paragraph 2. Each document shall indicate where the other constituent documents of the full prospectus may be obtained.

6. The text and the format of the prospectus, and/or the supplements to the prospectus, published or made available to the public, shall at all times be identical to the original version approved by the competent authority of the home Member State.

7. Where the prospectus is made available by publication in electronic form, a paper copy must nevertheless be delivered to the investor, upon his request and free of charge, by the issuer, the offeror, the person asking for admission to trading or the financial intermediaries placing or selling the securities.

8. In order to take account of technical developments on financial markets and to ensure uniform application of the Directive, the Commission shall, in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 24(2), adopt implementing measures concerning paragraphs 1, 2, 3 and 4. The first set of implementing measures shall be adopted by 1 July 2004.

Such a supplement shall be approved in the same way in a maximum of seven working days and published in accordance with at least the same arrangements as were applied when the original prospectus was published. The summary, and any translations thereof, shall also be supplemented, if necessary to take into account the new information included in the supplement.

2. Investors who have already agreed to purchase or subscribe for the securities before the supplement is published shall have the right, exercisable within a time limit which shall not be shorter than two working days after the publication of the supplement, to withdraw their acceptances.

(c) statements made by the persons responsible within the issuer, whose names and functions shall be clearly indicated, to the effect that, to the best of their knowledge, the financial statements prepared in accordance with the applicable set of accounting standards give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities, financial position and profit or loss of the issuer and the undertakings included in the consolidation taken as a whole and that the management report includes a fair review of the development and performance of the business and the position of the issuer and the undertakings included in the consolidation taken as a whole, together with a description of the principal risks and uncertainties that they face.

3. Where the issuer is required to prepare consolidated accounts according to the Seventh Council Directive 83/349/EEC of 13 June 1983 on consolidated accounts [15], the audited financial statements shall comprise such consolidated accounts drawn up in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 and the annual accounts of the parent company drawn up in accordance with the national law of the Member State in which the parent company is incorporated.

Glossary Annex B

HM Treasury consolidated list of persons designated as being subject to financial restrictions.

This includes targets listed by the United Nations, European Union and United Kingdom under legislation relating to current financial restrictions regimes. The purpose of the HM Treasury list is to draw together in one place all the names of designated persons for the various financial restrictions regimes effective in the UK.

General legal requirements

The UK imposes financial restrictions on persons and entities following their designation at the United Nations and/or European Union. The UK also operates a domestic counter-terrorism regime, where the Government decides to impose financial restrictions on certain persons and entities.

Financial restrictions in the UK are governed by various pieces of legislation. In all circumstances, where an asset freeze is imposed, it is unlawful to deal with the funds or other assets of the designated person or make payments to them or for their benefit

A list of all financial restrictions currently in force in the UK is maintained by the Treasury's Asset Freezing Unit. The Consolidated List of persons designated as being subject to financial restrictions can be found on the HM Treasury web site at: <http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/financialsanctions>

Further information on financial restrictions can also be found via this website.

There are specific financial restrictions targeted at the Al-Qaida network and Terrorism

Under the relevant legislation it is a criminal offence for any natural or legal person to:

- a) Deal with the funds of designated persons
- b) Make funds and economic resources, and in the case of Terrorism financial services, available, directly or indirectly to or for the benefit of designated persons, or
- c) Knowingly and intentionally participate in activities that would directly or indirectly circumvent the financial restrictions or enable or facilitate the commission of an offence relating to a) and b) above.

“Deal with” means:

- (a) In respect of funds -
 - Use, alter, move, allow access to or transfer
 - Deal with in any other way that would result in any change in volume, amount, location, ownership, possession, character or destination, or
 - Make any other change that would enable use, including portfolio management and
- (b) In respect of economic resources -
 - Use to obtain funds, goods or services in any way, including (but not limited to) by selling, hiring or mortgaging the resources.

The purpose of this legislation imposing financial restrictions is primarily to prevent the diversion of funds to terrorism and terrorist purposes.

HM Treasury has the power to grant licenses exempting certain transactions from the financial restrictions. Requests to disapply the financial restrictions in relation to a designated person are considered by the Treasury on a case-by-case basis to ensure that there is no risk of funds being diverted to terrorism. To apply for a licence, please contact the Asset Freezing Unit at HM Treasury using the contact details below.

Businesses

Businesses need to have appropriate policies and procedures in place to monitor payments in order to prevent breaches of the financial restrictions legislation.

For manual checking, businesses can register with the HM Treasury Asset Freezing Unit update service (directly or via a third party).

If checking is automated, businesses will need to ensure that the relevant software includes checks against the latest consolidated list.

The Asset Freezing Unit may also be contacted to provide guidance and to assist with any concerns regarding financial restrictions at:

In the event that a customer or a payee is identified as a designated person payments must not proceed unless a licence is granted by the Treasury, as this would be a breach of the financial restrictions. The Treasury should be informed immediately and the transaction suspended pending their advice. No funds should be returned to the designated person. The firm may also need to consider whether there is an obligation also to report to SOCA under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 or the Terrorism Act 2000.

- the Association of Taxation Technicians,
- the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales,
- the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants,
- the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants; and
- HM Revenue and Customs

as an Appendix to the anti-money laundering guidance released by the Consultative Committee of Accountancy Bodies (CCAB).

This supplementary Guidance is not stand alone Guidance; it must be read in conjunction with the CCAB's anti money laundering guidance to which this Guidance is an appendix. It focuses on the interaction between anti money laundering compliance and tax offences and covers the issues that a tax practitioner is most likely to encounter in practice.

The comments received on the exposure draft of this guidance have been considered and incorporated where appropriate. HM Treasury has approved this guidance. This means that the Courts must consider the content of the Guidance when determining whether an accountant's or tax practitioner's conduct gives rise to an offence under either the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002, Terrorism Act 2000 or the Money Laundering Regulations 2007.

MONEY LAUNDERING: SUPPLEMENTARY GUIDANCE FOR THE TAX PRACTITIONER

Guidance approved by HM Treasury on the prevention of money laundering and the countering of terrorist financing for those providing tax services in the United Kingdom to be read as an Appendix to the CCAB anti-money laundering guidance

Note: This guidance is incomplete on its own. It must be read in conjunction with the CCAB's Anti Money Laundering guidance.

1. ABOUT THIS SUPPLEMENTARY GUIDANCE

1.1 This supplementary guidance has been developed by the Chartered Institute of Taxation, the Association of Taxation Technicians, the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants, the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales, the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants and HMRC for professionals providing tax services.

1.2 This supplementary guidance uses the descriptive term 'tax practitioner' for someone in business offering tax services. The MLR 2007 uses the term 'tax adviser' and defines a tax adviser as 'a firm or sole practitioner who by way of business provides advice about the tax affairs of other persons, when providing such services'.

The meaning of 'advice' is widely interpreted. For the purpose of this and the CCAB guidance, tax compliance services, ie assisting in the completion and submission of tax returns, is included within the term. It was considered that, for the purposes of this supplementary guidance, the term 'tax practitioner' minimises the risk of someone assuming that MLR 2007 does not apply to their business because they provide tax compliance services.

1.3 The term 'tax' covers all direct and indirect taxes including duties.

1.4 A tax practitioner providing tax advice privately on an unremunerated or voluntary basis (for example as an unpaid volunteer with the Citizens Advice Bureau) does not come within the scope of the MLR 2007 as he is not providing his services 'by way of business'. However tax advice given by way of business is within the scope of MLR 2007 even if it is provided to the client on a pro bono or unremunerated basis. See also paragraph 1.6 of the CCAB guidance.

1.5 The Treasury has approved this guidance. As noted in the CCAB's guidance approval means that the Courts must have regard to the guidance in deciding whether businesses or individuals affected by it have committed an offence under the MLR 2007 or ss 330-331 POCA or s21A of The Terrorism Act 2000.

2. HOW TO USE THIS SUPPLEMENTARY GUIDANCE

2.1 This supplementary guidance is for professionals providing tax services. It focuses on the interaction between anti money laundering compliance or countering terrorist financing and tax offences and those issues that the tax practitioner is most likely to encounter. It is not intended to be a comprehensive guide to tax offences. It is not stand alone guidance – it must be read in conjunction with the CCAB AML guidance. The broad interpretation of ‘tax adviser’ means that this guidance cannot cover every aspect of tax work but the principles set out in the CCAB guidance and in this guidance apply to all taxes and duties.

2.2 A tax practitioner must have a clear understanding of his obligations under the anti Money Laundering legislation. Detailed guidance is given in the CCAB guidance as follows:

Section 1	About this guidance
Section 2	The offences
Section 3	Anti money laundering systems and controls
Section 4	The risk based approach to Customer Due Diligence
Section 5	Customer Due Diligence
Section 6	Internal reporting
Section 7	Role of MLRO and SAR reporting
Section 8	Consent
Section 9	Post SAR actions

2.3 Where a tax practitioner is uncertain of his obligations under the anti-money laundering legislation he should seek specialist help.

3. TAX PRACTITIONERS, MLR 2007 AND POCA

3.1 The obligations placed on a tax practitioner under MLR 2007 and POCA are covered in the CCAB guidance.

3.2 Paragraph 1.14 of that guidance sets out the role of the supervisory authorities and advises tax practitioners who are in business of the requirement to be supervised by a supervisory authority.

3.3 A tax practitioner should be aware of HMRC’s responsibility under MLR 2007 to regulate trust and company service providers, which may impinge upon the work they undertake for their clients. However if the tax practitioner is supervised by another supervisory authority for other tax and accounting services, that supervisory authority can act as supervisor for the trust and company service work.

- 3.4 Whilst this supplementary guidance focuses on tax offences, a tax practitioner should be aware of the potential need to report to SOCA (or to his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) where he knows or suspects or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting, on the basis of information which came to him in the course of his work as a tax practitioner, that another person is engaged in money laundering. This means that where, in the course of his work, a tax practitioner has knowledge or suspicion of proceeds derived from any crime (ie not restricted to tax crimes) a report may be required.
- 3.5 In particular, a tax practitioner should also take proper care, under Section 328 POCA, to ensure he does not become concerned in an arrangement which he knows or suspects facilitates (by whatever means) the acquisition, retention, use or control of criminal property by or on behalf of another person when assisting clients.

4. OVERVIEW OF THE TAX SECTOR

- 4.1 Tax work covers a broad range of activities from routine compliance work to complex tax planning.
- 4.2 Tax compliance includes the processing and submission of returns to the tax authorities.
- 4.3 Tax planning looks at advising on and structuring tax affairs in a tax efficient manner. This can sometimes involve the use of trusts, offshore entities and tax favourable regimes.

5. WHAT ARE THE MONEY LAUNDERING RISKS IN THE TAX SECTOR?

- 5.1 The money laundering risk areas that a tax practitioner may encounter in practice include the following:
- (a) Where a client's actions in respect of his tax affairs create proceeds of crime, for example:
- a client's refusal to correct errors (both for the past and on an ongoing basis); or
 - a client's deliberate under declaration of profits/income/gain or deliberate overstatement of expenses/losses.
- (b) Where during the course of dealing with a client's tax affairs a tax practitioner suspects or becomes aware that the client is holding proceeds of crime derived from criminal activity which may or may not be tax related.
- 5.2 The tax practitioner needs to be alert to the risk of assisting or facilitating the laundering of proceeds of crime whether through the evasion of taxes or otherwise. For example, where a client puts significant importance on maintaining the anonymity of beneficiaries or owners or in keeping confidential the structure of a complex plan ostensibly intended to minimise legally a tax liability, then the possibility that the funds involved are derived from the proceeds of crime should be kept in mind.

6. TAX OFFENCES

6.1 Introduction

6.1.1 There are a number of tax offences which can give rise to the proceeds of crime and SARs. These are discussed further below. When a tax practitioner has identified proceeds of crime, he (or his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) should consider carefully whether the privilege reporting exemption applies before submitting a SAR. See section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance.

6.1.2 A tax practitioner is not required to be an expert in criminal law but would be expected to be aware of the boundaries between deliberate understatement or other tax evasion and simple cases of error or genuine differences in the interpretation of tax law and be able to identify conduct in relation to direct and indirect tax which is punishable by the criminal law. There will be no question of criminality where the client has adopted in good faith, honestly and without mis-statement a technical position with which HMRC disagrees.

6.1.3 The main areas where offences may arise in direct tax are:

- tax evasion, including making false returns (including supporting documents), accounts or financial statements or deliberate failure to submit returns;
- deliberate refusal to correct known errors; and less commonly
- failure to obtain consent under s765 ICTA

6.2 Taxes Management Act 1970 ('TMA') tax 'offences'

6.2.1 The TMA provides a civil penalty regime covering both fraudulent and negligent conduct. It is only fraudulent or dishonest conduct which is reportable under POCA. The money laundering legislation is only concerned with the proceeds of criminal conduct. Therefore, it is only that conduct which the law treats as criminal offences which can lead to money laundering issues.

6.2.2 Where conduct may attract a civil penalty under the TMA but may also, on the particular facts, amount to criminal conduct then the conduct is criminal. By way of example, only, knowingly assisting in the preparation of an incorrect return etc could give rise to a civil penalty under s99 TMA, but the conduct concerned would typically amount to a criminal offence (such as false accounting or cheating HMRC) as well. Any case where fraudulent conduct is suspected should be reported unless the privilege reporting exemption applies. See section 12 below and section 7 of CCAB guidance

6.3 Prosecution policy – the need to report

- 6.3.1 In the tax environment, there are many circumstances in which the tax authorities have a long and established practice of dealing with matters on a civil basis. A policy view is taken that this is a more cost effective approach and that the interest and penalties that can be charged on a civil basis constitute sufficient restitution and deterrent.
- 6.3.2 This is the case across direct tax and VAT where criminal prosecutions are very much the exception.
- 6.3.3 However, the practices or anticipated practices of HMRC are irrelevant to the reporting obligations under POCA. If a tax practitioner suspects that a criminal offence may have been committed, and that there may be or may have been proceeds, whether actual or prospective proceeds, then unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance), he is obliged to report to SOCA (or to his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) irrespective of the fact that a criminal prosecution may in the member's view be highly unlikely in practice.

7. RELUCTANCE TO CORRECT PAST ERRORS

7.1 Innocent or negligent error – direct tax

- 7.1.1 It is not uncommon for tax practitioners to become aware of errors in or omissions in current or in past years from clients' tax returns or any calculations or statements appertaining to any liability or an underpayment of tax, for example because a payment date has been missed. If the tax practitioner has no cause to doubt that these came about as a result of innocent mistake or negligence then he will not have formed a suspicion. However, in some cases, the tax practitioner may form a suspicion that the original irregularity was criminal in nature and should make a report unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance).

7.2 Innocent or negligent error – indirect tax

- 7.2.1 In the case of indirect tax, see section 11 below on handling the original error.

7.3 Unwillingness or refusal to disclose to the tax authorities

- 7.3.1 Where a client indicates that he is unwilling or refuses to disclose the matter to HMRC in order to avoid paying the tax due, the client appears to have formed criminal intent and hence the reporting obligation arises unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance). A tax practitioner will need to be careful in applying the privilege exemption when the client has expressed clear intention to evade taxes and needs to consider whether the crime/fraud exception applies. The tax practitioner should also consider whether he can continue to act and consult his professional body's guidance on such matters. This paragraph applies equally to potential clients for whom the tax practitioner has declined to act.

7.4 Adjusting subsequent returns

- 7.4.1 Where the law permits the correction of small errors by subsequent tax adjustments, and the original error was not attributable to any criminal conduct, then the adjustment itself will not give rise to the need to report, since no crime will have been committed. However, it should be noted that the legislation does apply to any conduct which constitutes the laundering of the proceeds of any criminal offence however small the amount involved.

8. INTENTION TO UNDERPAY TAX

- 8.1.1 A client may suggest that he will in the future underpay tax which would be tax evasion and a money laundering offence when it occurs.
- 8.1.2 A tax practitioner can and should apply his professional body's normal ethical guidance to persuade the client to comply with the law. Should the client's intention in this regard still remain in doubt, the tax practitioner should consider carefully whether he can commence or continue to act.
- 8.1.3 A SAR may well be required in such cases once there are proceeds of crime, depending upon the facts and circumstances and whether the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance). As in 7.3.1 above a tax practitioner will need to be careful in applying the privilege exemption when the client has expressed clear intention to evade taxes.

9. TAX EVASION

9.1 General

- 9.1.1 Where a tax practitioner knows or suspects, or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting, that a client or other party is engaged in tax evasion in the UK or overseas, this will clearly amount to one or more of a number of possible criminal offences, such as theft, obtaining pecuniary advantage by fraud, false accounting, cheating HMRC, the offence of fraudulent evasion of income tax under s 144 Finance Act 2000 or a range of specific indirect tax offences (see section 11 below). Unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance) a tax practitioner should report the matter to SOCA (or to his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) immediately.
- 9.1.2 If the suspected evasion is of taxes outside the UK, in circumstances which would be a criminal offence if the conduct occurred in the UK, this should also be reported immediately unless it is known to be lawful under the criminal law applying in that country and that conduct, if carried out in the UK, would attract a maximum sentence in the UK of less than twelve months, except as prescribed by order.

As in other cases, this is unless the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance). There are other very limited exceptions regarding the reporting of overseas criminal conduct; see 2.4 and 2.5 of CCAB guidance.

- 9.1.3 A tax practitioner can and should apply the principles set out in his professional body's normal ethical guidance to persuade the client to act properly. A tax practitioner will need to consider carefully whether he can continue to act if the client refuses to make a full disclosure to HMRC.

9.2 Civil Investigation of Fraud (CIF) Procedures

- 9.2.1 In circumstances where a potential or current client asks a member to act in the making of a CIF disclosure to HMRC a suspicion of tax evasion will often, but not always, arise.
- 9.2.2 A tax practitioner should be aware that notification to HMRC is not a substitute for a report to SOCA. Where appropriate a report must also be made to SOCA as soon as the tax practitioner has knowledge or suspicion or reasonable grounds for knowledge or suspicion that tax has intentionally not been paid when due. The tax practitioner (or his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) should consider carefully whether the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance) before submitting a SAR.
- 9.2.3 There may be occasions where the tax practitioner does not hold sufficient information to make a detailed disclosure of his client's tax evasion to HMRC at the same time as he (or his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) submits a SAR to SOCA. However the tax practitioner will be keen to protect his client's position by notifying HMRC of the tax evasion before SOCA does so that the case may be regarded as a voluntary disclosure. The practicalities of this situation are covered in a Question and Answer note agreed with HMRC attached as Appendix 1.

10. FAILURE TO OBTAIN TREASURY CONSENT – S765 ICTA

- 10.1.1 This section is relevant to members who deal with transactions by companies with international aspects - those transactions that may require consent relate to the creation or issuing or transferring of shares or debentures.
- 10.1.2 Under s766 ICTA 1988 companies, their officers and advisers may be guilty of criminal offences if a transaction requiring special consent under s765(1) takes place without such consent. The person needs to know that the actions were unlawful under s765(1) in order to be guilty of a criminal offence (s766(1)). In practice this is of limited assistance in cases of innocent oversight because s766(2) puts the burden of proof as to the person's state of knowledge on to the individual in the case of directors.
- 10.1.3 The next question is whether there are proceeds. If a client has undertaken a tax planning transaction for which Treasury consent was needed and would have been unlikely to have been granted, the tax not paid as a result of the planning would constitute proceeds from the crime. In other circumstances there may be no proceeds, but this will need to be considered on the facts. Where there are proceeds, the tax practitioner should finally consider whether the alleged offender knew or suspected that the proceeds arose from criminal conduct. The tax practitioner would usually advise the client that a criminal offence may have occurred, so that the client would then have the requisite knowledge.

10.1.4 When a tax practitioner realises that there has or may have been a breach of s765 ICTA, he (or his firm's MLRO where he is not a sole practitioner) will need to consider making a SAR based on the factors discussed above. He should also bear in mind whether the privilege reporting exemption applies (see section 12 below and section 7 of the CCAB guidance). The tax practitioner should also consider what other action is appropriate, for example, advising the client to notify HMRC.

11. INDIRECT TAX

11.1 Overview

11.1.1 Where indirect tax is concerned, innocent or negligent errors may be criminal offences as strict liability is imposed by such as s167 (3) CEMA which provides:

'If any person –

(a) makes or signs, or causes to be made or signed, or delivers or causes to be delivered to the Commissioners or any officer, any declaration, notice, certificate or other document whatsoever; or

(b) makes any statement in answer to any question put to him by an officer which he is required by or under any enactment to answer, being a document or statement produced or made for any purpose of any assigned matter, which is untrue in any material particular, then, without prejudice to subsection (4) below, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty of level 4 on the standard scale'.

'Assigned matter' is defined in section 1 of CEMA as meaning 'any matter in relation to which the Commissioners are for the time being required in pursuance of any enactment to perform any duties'.

11.1.2 This broadly makes most errors, however innocent, criminal offences in VAT and all other indirect taxes. The fact that VAT matters are in practice handled under the civil penalties regime in most circumstances is irrelevant (see section 6.3 above) to the fact that there is an offence under s167(3) CEMA. However an innocent or negligent error will not fall to be classed as money laundering where the person making the error was not aware/did not suspect that they had committed a criminal offence.

11.1.3 Property is only criminal property for the purposes of POCA if it not only constitutes or represents benefit from criminal conduct, but the 'alleged offender knows or suspects that it constitutes or represents such a benefit' (s340(3)POCA). A client who has knowledge of s167 CEMA will 'know or suspect' that they are in receipt of funds once they become aware of the error or mistake so the normal SAR regime applies. There is no presumption that the client is aware of the strict liability offence in s167(3) and a practitioner does not have to investigate the client's knowledge, but should make a judgement based on his knowledge of the client. If a practitioner believes a report is necessary but that the client made an error or innocent mistake they should consider making reference to this opinion in any SAR they make.

11.1.4 Where the practitioner suspects that the irregularity may have amounted to tax evasion or tax fraud, the need to make a SAR should be considered on the usual basis and in the same way as for direct tax. There are large numbers of specific criminal offences in the indirect taxes legislation and these are outlined in paragraphs 11.2 and 11.3 below. However in essence they all amount to variations on tax evasion and involve some intent to avoid paying the correct amount of tax.

11.1.5 Unwillingness or refusal to correct indirect tax errors should be treated as set out in 7.3 above.

11.2 Other offences applicable across indirect tax

11.2.1 There is a range of crimes in the Customs and Excise legislation, covering such areas as:

- the bribing of a Commissioner, officer or appointed or authorised person;
- the obstructing of an officer performing any duty, or similar conduct;
- production, signing etc of untrue documents and statements;
- the counterfeiting or falsifying of documents;
- obstructing, or failing to assist in, the inspection of a computer;
- the breaching of conditions applied in respect of relief from VAT conferred on specified classes of persons, such as members of visiting forces; and
- the failure to furnish a supplementary declaration under the Intrastat procedure.

In addition there is the common law offence of Cheating the Public Revenue.

11.2.2 There are a number of other offences relating to particular indirect taxes and excise duties, such as stamp duty and stamp duty land tax, alcohol, tobacco products and mineral oil duties, betting and gaming duty, aggregates levy etc. The legislation in respect of these duties, taxes and levies provides the offences specific to them.

11.2.3 As VAT is the indirect tax most commonly advised upon by tax practitioners further details about specific offences applicable to VAT is given in 11.3 below.

11.3 Specific offences applicable in VAT

11.3.1 Fraudulent evasion of VAT (s 72(1) VATA)

A person who is knowingly concerned in, or is taking steps with a view to, the fraudulent evasion of VAT by him or any other person is liable under this offence. A person's conduct may amount to fraudulent evasion under this provision if he understates payments due to the Commissioners for a prescribed accounting period. In certain circumstances the over claiming of VAT (eg a refund in respect of bad debts) may also result in fraudulent evasion. If proceeds arose from such conduct, this would also constitute money laundering.

11.3.2 Production, furnishing or sending of false documents and statements (s72 (3) VATA)

This involves the production, furnishing or sending of a false document with the intent to deceive. In addition, it includes knowingly or recklessly making a false statement. If proceeds arose from such conduct, this would also constitute money laundering.

11.3.3 Conduct which must have involved an offence (s72(8) VATA)

Where a person's conduct during any specified period must have involved the commission by him of one or more of the offences listed above, then, regardless of whether the specifics of the offence(s) are known, he is guilty of an offence. The purpose of this provision is to cover cases where it can be proved that an offence has been committed during a period spanning a number of prescribed accounting periods, but it is not clear to what extent it was committed in any particular prescribed accounting period within the total period concerned. It is only one offence, even if it covers more than one period. If proceeds arose from such conduct, this would also constitute money laundering.

11.3.4 The possession and dealing in goods on which VAT has been evaded (s72(10) VATA)

A person commits an offence, and is liable to penalties, if, having reason to believe that tax has been or will be evaded on them, he either acquires possession of any goods; deals with any goods; or accepts the supply of any services. If proceeds arose from such conduct, this would also constitute money laundering.

11.3.5 Supplying of goods or service without providing security (s72(11) VATA)

A person who is required, under VAT Act 1994 Schedule 11 para 4(2), to give security for the further payment of VAT as a prerequisite for making taxable supplies and who makes those supplies without the provision of security, has committed an offence. If proceeds arose from such conduct, this would also constitute money laundering.

12. THE PRIVILEGE REPORTING EXEMPTION

12.1.1 A tax practitioner should be aware that the privilege reporting exemption does not apply to 'information or other matter which is communicated or given with the intention of furthering a criminal purpose'.

12.1.2 A tax practitioner should read this section in conjunction with paragraphs 7.26 – 7.46 of the CCAB guidance which covers the privilege reporting exemption and the crime/fraud exception in detail.

12.1.3 In summary a tax practitioner who is a professional legal adviser or a 'relevant professional adviser' who suspects or has reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting that another person is engaged in money laundering is prohibited from making a money laundering report where the knowledge or suspicion comes to him in 'privileged circumstances'.

12.1.4 Relevant professional adviser is defined in s330(14) POCA as follows:

'an accountant, auditor or tax adviser who is a member of a professional body which is established for accountants, auditors or tax advisers (as the case may be) and which makes provision for

- (a) testing of competence of those seeking admission to membership of such a body as a condition for such admission; and*
- (b) imposing and maintaining professional and ethical standards for its members as well as imposing sanctions for non-compliance with those standards.'*

12.1.5 The legislation does not list the professional bodies which meet the criteria but the CCAB bodies, the Chartered Institute of Taxation and the Association of Taxation Technicians meet the criteria and hence their members may be considered to be 'relevant professional advisers'

12.1.6 Privileged circumstances is defined at s330 (10) POCA as:

'Information or other matter comes to a professional legal adviser or other relevant professional adviser in privileged circumstances if it is communicated or given to him:

- (a) by (or by a representative of) a client of his in connection with the giving by the adviser of legal advice to the client;*
- (b) by (or by a representative of) a person seeking legal advice from the adviser; or*
- (c) by a person in connection with legal proceedings or contemplated legal proceedings.'*

12.1.7 The CCAB gives guidance on when the privilege reporting exemption might apply. The CIOT and ATT took Counsel's opinion on the privilege reporting exemption and how it might affect their members. This advice included examples of when the privilege reporting exemption might apply and is unlikely to apply. Those examples together with the CCAB's are attached as Appendices 2 and 3.

13. CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE (CDD)

13.1.1 Customer due diligence and beneficial ownership is considered in detail in Section 5 of the CCAB guidance and a tax practitioner should refer to that guidance in the first instance. A tax practitioner should have regard to the financial restrictions list issued by the government and its advisory notices against countries with material deficiencies in their anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing regimes. See paragraphs 5.32, 5.44 and Glossary Annex B of the CCAB guidance for further details and HM Treasury's website at www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/financial_services/sanctions/fin_sanctions_index.cfr

13.1.2 A tax practitioner may be called upon to advise another professional firm. Unless there is a clear agreement between the firms that the advising firm is intended to form a client relationship with the other firm's client, or unless the advising firm comes into contact with and/or enters into a dialogue with the other firm's client, the other firm is the client of the advising firm and accordingly must be made subject to CDD.

- 13.1.3 In cases where the advising firm's involvement is also with the other firm's client, then the other firm's client must also be made subject to CDD. It may be possible for the advising firm to rely on the other firm's CDD of the client but there are strict criteria which must be met; see paragraphs 5.33 – 5.41 of the CCAB guidance.

MONEY LAUNDERING AND DISCLOSURES TO HMRC: A QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS GUIDANCE NOTE

This note is an updated version of a note originally agreed between HMRC, the Association of Taxation Technicians and the Chartered Institute of Taxation.

Object of note

To provide guidance about the practical effect of the money laundering legislation on disclosures of tax evasion by tax practitioners.

Questions and answers

- 1. Will the money laundering requirements make any difference to HMRC's willingness to use Code of Practice 9 or in local offices their willingness to come to a settlement without prosecution?

HMRC have confirmed that the money laundering requirements will not affect enquiries under Code of Practice 9 or local office procedures.

- 2. Which government departments should I as a tax practitioner inform when I am approached by an individual who tells me that he wants to make a full disclosure of undeclared taxable income and/or gains?

Traditionally, you as a tax practitioner, having taken instructions and collected all necessary information from your client, will have informed the relevant office within HMRC, depending on the circumstances.

But if you have reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting that your client has intentionally evaded tax then the money laundering laws will also apply. You or your Money Laundering Reporting Officer (MLRO) if you have one, will be obliged also to make a report to SOCA in the specified form unless the privilege reporting exemption applies. Where you have a MLRO, you must notify him or her and they will in turn consider whether a report should be made to SOCA. See Section 7 of the CCAB anti money laundering guidance regarding the need to appoint a MLRO where you do not have one.

- 3. Should I make a report to SOCA when I receive a CoP 9 enquiry letter from HMRC?

It is your knowledge or suspicion that counts rather than HMRC's suspicion. You should make up your own mind whether such a letter gives you grounds for making a report applying the criteria in Section 330 POCA 2002, ie do you know or suspect, or have reasonable grounds for knowing or suspecting, that the client is engaged in money laundering as defined at Chapter 2 of the CCAB anti money laundering guidance.

4. When should I make a report to SOCA?

The money laundering legislation says that SOCA must be told 'as soon as is practicable after the information or other matter' that gave rise to the knowledge or suspicion was received.

5. It is possible that the potential client may not instruct me at all. Will HMRC monitor me as the tax practitioner named in the SOCA report to see if a disclosure emerges, and if so for how long?

HMRC recognize that the potential client may go elsewhere (or nowhere) for advice. They have said they have no intention of monitoring reputable practitioners after SOCA reports have been submitted.

6. Once I have told SOCA, what happens next assuming no other agency is involved?

SOCA will pass reports to a special intelligence unit within HMRC in the first instance. The unit will consider whether it is suitable for investigation towards criminal prosecution. If it is not, the case will either be considered for enquiry under a Civil Code of Practice or be referred to HMRC's Centre for Research and Intelligence in Llanishen, Cardiff. Where it is considered appropriate to pass intelligence on to relevant staff in taxpayer-facing offices neither the fact that the intelligence has come from SOCA, nor the identity of the original source of the intelligence, is disclosed.

7. Does the need to report to SOCA before I am ready to tell HMRC affect the timing of my providing information to HMRC about my client's undeclared income and or gains? Although I have made a report to SOCA when approached by a potential client with a tax disclosure to make, I may not immediately be able to approach HMRC because I will have to be formally instructed and the approach to HMRC approved by the client. Collecting and collating the information will inevitably take time especially where several individuals or entities are involved. How long will HMRC regard as a reasonable period before the approach is made while leaving the option of using CoP 9 open?

HMRC have confirmed that a delay would not jeopardise the CoP 9 approach where it would otherwise be available provided that the taxpayer is taking active steps to regularise their affairs. Doing nothing involves the risk that a CoP 9 enquiry may not be available and that prosecution may follow; or at least that penalty abatements are at risk.

One option, having obtained the client's permission, is to put down a marker by writing to HMRC, saying you have been instructed by a named client to act for them in coming to a settlement about undeclared income or gains. You would also provide a date by which you expect to be able to let HMRC have these details.

8. To which HMRC office should I send the marker letter?

Under these circumstances all letters should be sent to the Centre for Research and Intelligence, Ty Glas Road, Llanishen, Cardiff, CF4 5YF.

9. How long a time period for providing the information would HMRC consider reasonable in my 'marker' notification?

It will depend on the circumstances of each case but HMRC have indicated that they will take a reasonable approach.

Your estimated timetable will obviously depend on your assessment of the likely complexity of your client's affairs.

10. What happens if I miss my self-imposed deadline set out in my marker letter?

HMRC appreciate that the information may be difficult to obtain. You should obviously inform HMRC if you wish to extend your self-imposed deadline. You will need to update HMRC from time to time to reassure them that the client is taking active steps to help you move matters forward.

11. What is the position where HMRC already had concerns about a taxpayer and the money laundering notification is the trigger for the raid or the launch of an investigation? HMRC may not be prepared to wait, possibly due to concerns that documents might be destroyed. Would a CoP 9 enquiry still be a possibility for my client if the normal conditions are met (for example if the raid does not indicate that my client is unsuitable for a CoP 9 enquiry)?

HMRC have informed us that receipt of a report from SOCA or your 'marker' notification will not necessarily make them deviate from their proposed course of action. HMRC will look at the SOCA report in context of all other information available to them regarding a case when prioritizing the cases for investigation.

12. Will HMRC wait for a reasonable period of time before launching an enquiry on receipt of a report from SOCA?

In the majority of cases, given the time it would take for SOCA to pass information to HMRC and for HMRC to consider what action to take, the time lag between the report to SOCA and the making of a voluntary disclosure to HMRC may not be an issue in practice. You should monitor the receipt of acknowledgements to track progress. If you are concerned you could consider the use of a marker letter as discussed above.

EXAMPLES OF WHEN THE PRIVILEGE REPORTING EXEMPTION MIGHT APPLY

For the privilege reporting exemption to apply the information must come to a legal professional adviser or a relevant professional adviser in privileged circumstances. Whether the privilege reporting exemption applies will depend on the specific facts of the case. These examples are intended as general guidance only and are not a substitute for seeking legal advice in cases of doubt.

Examples included in the CCAB guidance

- advice on taxation matters, where the tax adviser is giving advice on the interpretation or application of any element of tax law and in the process is assisting a client to understand his tax position;
- advice on the legal aspects of a take-over bid, for example on points under the Companies Act legislation;
- advice on duties of directors under the Companies Act;
- advice to directors on legal issues relating to the Insolvency Act 1986, eg, on the legal aspects of wrongful trading; and
- advice on employment law.

Further examples based on advice given to the CIOT and ATT

- advice on how to order or structure a client's tax affairs in a tax efficient manner;
- advice on disclosure obligations to the tax authorities, including advice given in the context of compliance work on reporting requirements and situations where previously there may have been failure to disclose.
- Suspicions derived from pre-existing documents may be covered by the reporting exemption where those documents come to the tax practitioner in privileged circumstances. For example, if a client asked for tax advice on settling past tax under declarations and provided copies of bank statements or invoices or past tax returns in order that the tax adviser could advise, that information could be regarded as having come to the adviser in privileged circumstances.

Examples where relevant professional advisers might fall within privileged circumstances as regards litigation privilege include:

- assisting a client by taking witness statements from him or from third parties in respect of litigation;
- representing a client, as permitted, at a tax tribunal; and
- when instructed as an expert witness by a solicitor on behalf of a client in respect of litigation.

EXAMPLES OF WHEN THE PRIVILEGE REPORTING EXEMPTION IS UNLIKELY TO APPLY

Examples included in the CCAB guidance

It should be noted that conducting audit work does not of itself give rise to privileged circumstances for this purpose, as the relevant professional adviser is neither providing legal advice, nor is he instructed in respect of litigation. Nor do routine book-keeping, accounts preparation or tax compliance assignments, though privileged circumstances may arise if the client requests or the adviser gives legal advice on an informal basis during the course of such an assignment

Further examples based on advice given to the CIOT and ATT

- Information uncovered during tax compliance work, for example spotting that personal expenditure had been claimed as a business expense in a previous year.
- Information uncovered during a tax due diligence assignment or other agreed upon procedures exercise which is for the purposes of producing an evaluation report or an assurance based opinion (other than an audit) to the client or a third party.
- Information provided by or communications received direct from any third party particularly if no advice has been sought in respect of the underlying detailed content by the client. For example, receipt of information or communications when acting as the client's tax agent.
- Information received about the client's or a third party's affairs which is outside the scope of the tax services in respect of which the adviser has been engaged.
